Polio Vaccine Called Safe, Effective, Potent

Dr. Salk Reports Trial Is Success

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
AP Science Reporter

Ann Arbor, Mich., April 12 (AP)—The Salk polio vaccine is safe, effective and potent, it was officially announced today.

The vaccine was found 80 to 90 per cent effective in preventing paralytic polio in tests last year, anxious parents were told today by Dr. Thomas Francis Jr. of the University of Michigan.

Dr. Jonas E. Salk of Pittsburgh immediately declared he is sure the vaccine is potentially almost 100 per cent effective and can bring complete triumph over polio and its lieutenants of terror and tragedy.

Dr. Francis' official report declared the vaccine has produced an "extremely successful effect" among children with bulbar polio, the most dangerous type.

THERE IS NO doubt that children now can be vaccinated successfully to end the threat of polio and the anxiety it causes every year.

The vaccine was found incredibly safe and with only .4 of 1 per cent of children receiving it suffering minor reactions.

So called "major reactions" were almost completely lacking.

The time of protection from the vaccine appears reasonably good.

"The effect was maintained with but moderate decline after five months."

PARALYSIS occurred in 33 children who received the vaccine in areas where children were given either the real vaccine or dummy shots. None died.

Just one child given the vaccine died of polio and the death followed removal of tonsils two days after his second shot of vaccine in an area where polio was already prevalent.

Dr. Salk urged that children this year be given only two shots of vaccine in order to step up the effectiveness of the vaccine. He said the shots should be spaced two to four weeks apart with the third one delayed for at least seven months afterwards.

Dr. Salk said he finds the best protection comes when the shots are spaced this way instead of being given all within five weeks as was done last year.

He said some variations in the vaccination results were apparently due to some bad or impotent batches of vaccine.

Salk also urged that children vaccinated last year be given a booster shot as soon as the vaccine is available.

Licensing of the vaccine by the National Institute of Health is expected within 48 hours to make possible a quick beginning

5,500 Area Children to GetVaccine

N. Y. Parents Sign For 200,000 Doses

Approximately 5,500 school children in Ulster county will be administered the Salk polio vaccine beginning April 18, if the vaccine becomes available it was announced today by health and school officials.

Another announcement in Washington said Secretary of Welfare Hobby will formally license the vaccine for general use at 4 p. m. And, in New York, it was reported that parents of more than 200,000 city school pupils have asked that their children be inoculated against polio with the Salk vaccine.

THE INOCULATION here will be administered under the supervision of the Ulster County Medical Society, Ulster County Health Board and school officials.

The vaccine will be given children in the first, second, third and fourth grades. Forms for permission by parents for the inoculation were submitted about a month ago and were based contingently on the favorable results which were announced today. Children who received the inoculation last year will not receive it at this time.

IN THE CITY of Kingston, Dr. Irving J. Josephson, school physician, said that inoculations would start Wednesday, April 20 if the vaccine had been received.

Members of the Ulster County Medical Society will assist in the work as volunteers as they did last year.

Mrs. Hobby's signature is a legal requirement is was reported by The Associated Press before any new medical product such as the vaccine can be sold commercially.

The Welfare Department announced shortly after noon that the signing ceremony would be held in the secretary's office.

THE GO-AHEAD for licensing of the vaccine came from Dr.

Claims Allies Fear Tangle With Red China

Declaration Is Asked Condemning Use of Force in Strait of Formosa

Chicago, April 12 (AP)—Adlai Stevenson says the United States has put itself in a position in Asia where it faces "another damaging and humiliating retreat, or else the hazard of war."

He called for a joint declaration by the free nations condemning the use of force in the 100-mile wide strait between Nationalist Formosa and Communist China.

THE 1952 Democratic presidential nominee, in a nationwide radio broadcast last night said a "dead-end policy" of the Eisenhower Administration put the United States in its present position in Asia.

The administration's "policy of extravagant words" in the Far Eastern situation, Stevenson declared, "has alarmed our friends a good deal more than it has deterred the aggressors."

"The tragedy is that the possibility of war just now seems to hinge upon Quemoy and Matsu, small islands that lie almost as close to the coast of China as Staten Island does to New York," Stevenson said.

". . . I have the greatest misgivings about risking a third world war in defense of these little islands in which we would have neither the same legal justification nor the same support as in the defense of Formosa."

HE SAID the United States should enlist both its friends and the neutral nations in "an open declaration condemning the use of force in Formosa Strait."

He said Russia also should be asked to "declare its position."

He said:

"With such an international declaration denouncing the use of force; with such collective support for the defense of Formosa; with the addition thereby of moral solidarity to military strength in Formosa, I should think Quemoy and Matsu would have little further importance to the Nationalists, let alone to us."

STEVENSON spoke on a nationwide radio hookup provided free as a public service by the CBS and NBC networks. Friends said he decided to give views on Far Eastern policy in response to "hundreds of letters, telegrams and phone calls."

It was his first major speech since December, and the first time he has publicly criticized President Eisenhower's Far Eastern policy. The text was not cleared beforehand with the Democratic National Committee.

Stevenson said the United Nations General Assembly also should seek a permanent solution to the Formosa problem.

AT UN headquarters in New York, diplomats said the question of any UN action on Formosa and the offshore islands has been resting quietly on a shelf since several weeks ago when Red China refused to even discuss the Security Council's attempt to arrange a cease-fire.

Sen. George (D.-Ga.), chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, disclosed today that the Eisenhower administration is considering asking the UN General Assembly to pass a resolution against the use of force in the Formosa strait.

George said the proposal to put the Assembly on record against the use of force in the Formosa area had been under State Department consideration.

HE SAID he agrees generally with the proposals made by Stevenson but he did not comment on Stevenson's attacks on some Eisenhower policies.

Stevenson declared the Eisenhower administration has been

Home-Seekers, Four Talk Terms

A verbal agreement has been entered into between Home-Seekers' Savings and Loan Association and a group of four local men for the sale of The Freeman Building at 239 Fair street, it was learned today.

Home-Seekers' holds an option on the purchase of The Freeman building uptown and the adjoining private parking lot, and has applied to the state superintendent of banks to move its main office from its present location at Broadway and Strand to a new building to be erected on the Fair street property.

IF THE APPLICATION is granted by the banking department, Home-Seekers' has announced it will take title to the property, erect a building on the portion now used as a parking lot, and re-sell the portion of the property containing The Freeman building.

Those who have the agreement with Home Seekers' to purchase the existing Freeman building are said to be Raymond Craft, Leo Holz, Jack Shor and Al Flick.The agreement is subject to Home-Seekeers' exercising its option, which in turn is subject to approval of the banking department of the change in location of Home Seekers.' The option expires about the middle of May.

THE BUILDING is occupied by The Freeman Publishing Company as an uptown branch office, and by the Western Union Telegraph Company, on the first floor. Second and third floors are occupied by the Moran-Spencerian Business School.

Ford Joins Talks About Year-Round Auto Work

Detroit, April 12 (AP)—The Ford Motor Co. today joins the dramatic high-stakes bargaining in the booming auto industry over the union demand for guaranteed year-around employment.

Representatives of the CIO United Auto Workers Union prepared to start new contract bargaining talks with Ford, similar to those begun by the UAW last week with the rival General Motors Corp.

WALTER REUTHER, president of the UAW and the CIO, has said he expects to put over the guaranteed annual wage idea with the big automobile producers, then spread it throughout the UAW's claimed 1½ million membership and eventually throughout American industry.

Both Ford and GM, while avoiding taking any public stand on the year-around pay plan, have stressed in pronouncements this week that they have done a good job in regularizing pay and employment.

Ernest R. Breech, Ford board chairman, said in a speech to New York financial writers last night that Ford is doing "everything in our power to maintain stable employment in an industry that has usually been subject to wide swings in consumer demand."

FORD WORKERS have been averaging better han 40 hours a week of work for some time and enjoyed an average $107 weekly pay in March, Breech said. He added that his company is paying out a lot of money in premium overtime pay instead of hiring temporary workers who would only have to be laid off.

In 1927, he said, when Ford shifted from the Model T to Model A cars, the company was shut down completely for 4½ months and it was a full year later before full production was attained.

By contrast, he said, less than

Saratoga Flash Fire Claims Eight In Single Family

Saratoga Springs, April 12 (AP)—A mother and father and six children perished today in a flash fire that enveloped a business and apartment building in this upstate horse racing center.

Trapped by the flames were Mr. and Mrs. Gulbert Abeel, their five children, Billy, Gilbert Jr., Jane, Irene, and Ruth; and 10-year-old Garry La Rue of nearby Wilton. The La Rue boy was visiting the Abeels over Easter vacation. The Abeel children ranged up to 11 years old.

Dulles Action Is Seen Costly Error on Corsi

Washington, April 12 (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles appeared today to have committed a potentially costly political error in the Edward J. Corsi case.

Ironically, he may have been motivated by an eagerness to get along with Democrats in Congress—specifically with Rep. Walter (D.-Pa.), who had tangled bitterly with Corsi.

Dulles bounced his "old friend" Corsi out of a job as special assistant in charge of speeding immigration of European refugees after Walter said Corsi had once belonged to groups later tagged as subversive. Corsi disputed that and said his support for liberal immigration policies was responsible for Walter's opposition to him.

20 More Criminals Are Executed Last Year Than in '53

Washington, April 12 (AP)—The Federal Prison Bureau said today 82 civilian criminals were executed last year—20 more than in 1953.

Although the 1954 total was much higher than the previous year, the report continued to reflect a much smaller use of the death penalty than was the case a few years ago.

Prison Director James V. Bennett noted that in each of the last five years, there were fewer executions than in any year between 1930 and 1949; that "During these recent five years an average of 83 persons per year were executed, whereas during the previous 20 years the number per year averaged 147."

TEN OF THOSE put to death in 1954 were teen-agers executed in the previous four years.

Five states accounted for 45 of the 82 executions; Georgia with 12, California and Texas with 9 each, New York with 8.

100 Cars in Motorcade Worth Half Million

Nearly half a million dollars worth of gleaming new automobiles and trucks rolled through Kingston Monday evening in a motorcade marking the opening of "Spotlight on Automobiles" week.

In the first venture of its type, the Kingston Automobile Dealers Association staged the parade, which began at 6 p. m. in Port Ewen and disbanded at Dietz Memorial Stadium in Kingston.

The dealers' committee estimated there were 100 cars and trucks in line, representing a total retail value between $350,000 and $500,000.

The estimate was made by Harold B. Skellan, a member of the planning committee, who has been acting as the committee's "statistician." It was Skellan who compiled figures showing the economic importance of automobile dealerships to the county.

AEC Gives Regulations For Nuclear Companies

Washington, April 12 (AP)—The Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) announced today the regulations under which it will license utilities and other private firms to use nuclear materials for peaceful purposes.

This is one of the key steps designed to pave the way for expanded development and use of the atom in industry, medical treatment and other peaceful pursuits.

The regulations were issued under the 1954 Atomic Energy Revision Law; one of its chief purposes was to encourage private groups to get into the atomic energy field.

The new rules will not be effective until the lapse of 30 days during which interested persons may submit suggestions and comments.

Chairman Lewis L. Strauss of the AEC emphasized there is no deadline for filing of applications for licenses.

The AEC said these are the key provisions in the regulations:

"1. The applicant must be a reliable person, qualified through training and experience to use material safely."

2. "The applicant's equipment and facilities must be adequate to protect health and minimize danger to life or property."

3. "The use to which material is to be put must be authorized by the Atomic Energy Act." The authorized uses include power development, medical therapy and other peacetime purposes.

4. "The licensee must keep records of special nuclear material received, on hand and transferred, but the regulation does not prescribe detailed accounting procedures nor the type of physical protection to be

Trailer Concern Has Lease On Building in Ulster Town

Industrial expansion in the town of Ulster, north of Kingston, continues. Today Harford S. Shultis Jr., of the H. W. Shultis Millwork Company on Morton Boulevard confirmed a report that the firm had leased one of its two large buildings west of Route 9-W to the Sportscraft Trailer Manufacturing Corporation.

Possession will be taken on April 18 and it is expected the firm, which manufactures sports trailers, will commence operations on May first at the local plant.

Recently a representative of the company in Kingston contacted the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce seeking a site to locate a branch plant in the east adjacent to the metropolitan market area. The Shultis plant was visited and lease taken. The building which will be taken over by the trailer concern has approximately 4,500 square feet of floor space and was formerly occupied by the H. W. Shultis Millwork concern. Mr. Shultis stated today his concern will move to a second building which he owns just north of the leased building.

It is expected approximately 10 men will be employed at the trailer plant, at least for the present to assemble the product which is manufactured at Warren, Ohio, and at a plant in Michigan.

Plan Point Beach Party For Firemen's Convention

Plans for the June convention here of the Hudson Valley Volunteer Firemen's Association were advanced at a meeting of the convention committee in central fire station last night, and the committee issued a statement stressing observance of the volunteers' 200th anniversary in the city at the same time.

It was agreed that parade trophies are to be presented to winning companies at the carnival to be given June 18, the final convention night, at the carnival scheduled for Spring Lake.

Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy, who has prepared a tentative parade map, announced that he has received applications, to date, from 75 fire companies to participate in the parade.

It was also proposed tentatively to entertain delegates on Friday afternoon, June 17, at Kingston Point Beach.

The committee's statement noted that the convention will be the 66th of the Hudson Valley association, that more than 100 companies are expected to participate, and it will mark the city's 200th anniversary of the volunteers.

"For two centuries volunteer fire fighters have served the people of this community without compensation," the statement said, and the present "volunteer fire service comprises 10 companies with a total membership of over 900 firemen."

"These companies are strategically located throughout the city," it said; "Cordts Hose and Union Hose companies, serve the

The regulations were issued under the 1954 Atomic Energy Revision Law; one of its chief purposes was to encourage private groups to get into the atomic energy field.

The new rules will not be effective until the lapse of 30 days during which interested persons may submit suggestions and comments.

Chairman Lewis L. Strauss of the AEC emphasized there is no deadline for filing of applications for licenses.

The AEC said these are the key provisions in the regulations:

"1. The applicant must be a reliable person, qualified through training and experience to use material safely."

2. "The applicant's equipment and facilities must be adequate to protect health and minimize danger to life or property."

3. "The use to which material is to be put must be authorized by the Atomic Energy Act." The authorized uses include power development, medical therapy and other peacetime purposes.

4. "The licensee must keep records of special nuclear material received, on hand and transferred, but the regulation does not prescribe detailed accounting procedures nor the type of physical protection to be

Trailer Concern Has Lease On Building in Ulster Town

Industrial expansion in the town of Ulster, north of Kingston, continues. Today Harford S. Shultis Jr., of the H. W. Shultis Millwork Company on Morton Boulevard confirmed a report that the firm had leased one of its two large buildings west of Route 9-W to the Sportscraft Trailer Manufacturing Corporation.

Possession will be taken on April 18 and it is expected the firm, which manufactures sports trailers, will commence operations on May first at the local plant.

Recently a representative of the company in Kingston contacted the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce seeking a site to locate a branch plant in the east adjacent to the metropolitan market area. The Shultis plant was visited and lease taken. The building which will be taken over by the trailer concern has approximately 4,500 square feet of floor space and was formerly occupied by the H. W. Shultis Millwork concern. Mr. Shultis stated today his concern will move to a second building which he owns just north of the leased building.

It is expected approximately 10 men will be employed at the trailer plant, at least for the present to assemble the product which is manufactured at Warren, Ohio, and at a plant in Michigan.

Plan Point Beach Party For Firemen's Convention

Plans for the June convention here of the Hudson Valley Volunteer Firemen's Association were advanced at a meeting of the convention committee in central fire station last night, and the committee issued a statement stressing observance of the volunteers' 200th anniversary in the city at the same time.

It was agreed that parade trophies are to be presented to winning companies at the carnival to be given June 18, the final convention night, at the carnival scheduled for Spring Lake.

Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy, who has prepared a tentative parade map, announced that he has received applications, to date, from 75 fire companies to participate in the parade.

It was also proposed tentatively to entertain delegates on Friday afternoon, June 17, at Kingston Point Beach.

The committee's statement noted that the convention will be the 66th of the Hudson Valley association, that more than 100 companies are expected to participate, and it will mark the city's 200th anniversary of the volunteers.

"For two centuries volunteer fire fighters have served the people of this community without compensation," the statement said, and the present "volunteer fire service comprises 10 companies with a total membership of over 900 firemen."

"These companies are strategically located throughout the city," it said; "Cordts Hose and Union Hose companies, serve the

Tannery Destroyed

Gloversville, April 12 (AP)—A swiftly spreading grass fire yesterday destroyed a leather tannery and a lumber storage building and damaged 10 homes and the main building of the lumber yard. The loss was more than $200,000. The flames enveloped the frame two-and-a-half-story plant of the Peerless Tanning Co., Inc., despite the efforts of a group of employes. Explosions of tanning chemicals sent up clouds of black smoke.

Financial and Commercial

New York, April 12 (AP)—The stock market was moderately higher today in the early afternoon.

Producers of the Salk polio vaccine were in demand at higher prices, and most major divisions were ahead.

Gains ran to around 3 points while losses came to around 2 points. Most changes were small.

Trading was lively at times and hit a pace around 2½ million shares for the day. Yesterday's total in a slightly higher market was 2,600,000 shares.

Aircrafts were depressed today as they were yesterday on news of a projected Washington probe into aircraft profits.

Airlines were down slightly. Higher were the steels, motors, rubbers, chemicals, railroads, oils, utilities, and pharmacueticals.

Lower were New York Central, Eastern Air Lines, American Smelting, American Can, Youngstown Sheet & Tube, Boeing, Douglas Aircrafts and General Dynamics.

William Workman, chief of the Biologics Control Laboratory of the National Institutes of Health.

He had arranged in advance to telephone to Washington his appraisal of the vaccine on the basis of the evaluation made public at Ann Arbor earlier today. Workmen went to Ann Arbor to speed up his report.

Parents of New York city school pupils signed the request for Salk vaccine prior to the official announcement at Ann Arbor, Mich., today of the vaccine's effectiveness.

THE SIGNED requests came from about 75 per cent of the 281,858 public, private and parochial school children who are eligible for the shots under the health department's present program.

Dr. Morris Greenberg, director of the health department's Bureau of Preventable Diseases, estimated that between 90 and 95 per cent of the parents of the eligible children will sign requests before the inoculation program starts April 25.

Rockslide Caused Crash

Albany, April 12 (AP)—A rockslide not more than 37 minutes before the accident has been blamed for the New York Central train derailment April 2 that injured 35 persons, one fatally. Testimony at a four-hour closed hearing yesterday revealed that another train passed the site of the accident at 5:28 p. m. The combined Pacemaker and Advance Commodore Vanderbilt plowed into the rock slide near Shodack Landing, about 15 miles south of Albany at 6:05 p. m.

Booked for Perjury

New York, April 12 (AP)—Two police narcotics squad detectives were booked today for alleged perjury before a grand jury investigating reports dope dealers bribed squad members. The detectives are Isaac Ezagui, 30, and Chester Mann, 32, both of Brooklyn. They were booked in connection with sealed indictments returned by the Brooklyn rackets grand jury, Aaron Koota, chief of the rackets division of the Brooklyn district attorney's office, told newsmen.

Oppose Bridge Design

Greenwich, Conn., April 12 (AP)—Army engineers heard yachtsmen and commercial interests oppose the design of the proposed Mianus river bridge of the Greenwich-Killingly expressway at a meeting here last night. The bridge, its purpose and its estimated $4,721,000 cost drew no other opposition. Col. Robert J. Fleming, U. S. Army engineer who presided at the public hearing, heard that the 45-foot clearance for which the bridge is designed would interfere with the free use of the river by sailing vessels and, perhaps, oil barges.

Brush and Grass Fires Continue

Brush and grass fires continued to plague Ulster county volunteer fire companies Monday afternoon and early today.

Calls received at Mutual Aid Headquarters indicated Ulster Hose Company was dispatched to a brush fire near Belvedere Park Rest on Route 9W at 5:28 p. m. Monday; Kripplebush fire department answered an alarm at 5:45 p. m.; Rosendale at 5:55 p. m.; Ulster Hose to brush fire at Richmond Park at 7:24 p. m.; Cottekill department answering call to brush fire at 8:59 p. m.

Brush fire reported near Kripplebush at 12:10 a. m. today; same fire company called again at 1:15 a. m.; Rosendale answered call to Maple Hill at 7:57 a. m., and Bloomington dispatched to fire at 8:07 a. m.; High Falls department answered a fire call at 8:14 a. m., and Mt. Marion department was called to a fire at Mount Marion Park at 10:40 a. m. today.

and Florida with 7. North Carolina went through its first year without an execution in a quarter-century. Vermont, which had had just two executions since 1930, carried out two more last year.

Of those put to death, 72 were convicted of murder, 9 of rape, and 1 of armed robbery. Two were women, both doomed for murder and both in Ohio.

THREE OF LAST year's executions were by hanging, 12 by lethal gas, and 67 by electrocution.

As of the end of the year, 147 prisoners were under the death penalty.

The bureau's statistics exclude military executions. However, Bennett noted separately that during 1954, the military reported three executions, one for murder, two for rape and murder.

Buy 'Piggyback' Cars

New York, April 12 (AP)—Patrick B. McGinnis, president of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad, announced today that the directors have authorized the purchase of 200 radically different, lightweight, low-center-of-gravity "piggyback" cars. The new cars will allow greater clearance through tunnels and under bridges, will incorporate aeronautical shock-absorbing principles and will be equipped with roller bearings. They will measure 75 feet in length compared with the 40-foot cars of the past, thus accommodating two trailers instead of one.

Soloist Martin Kelly Jr., sang "Pie Jesu" and "In paradisum." Many relatives and friends paid their final tribute by attending the Mass. During the bereavement, scores of friends called to offer their condolences. Sunday afternoon Monsignor Connelly called and said prayers for the deceased. That evening St. Joseph's Holy Name Society assembled at the funeral home led by their president, Willet Titus, and assisted Father Keating in the recitation of the Rosary for their late member. There were many floral and spiritual bouquets. Burial was in St. Mary's Cemetery where Father Keating gave the final absolution at the grave. The bearers were Arthur Golnek, Francis Fagan, Louis Sapp, Sheldon O'Rourke, Thomas Tomshaw and James McCutcheon.

Tannery Destroyed

Gloversville, April 12 (AP)—A swiftly spreading grass fire yesterday destroyed a leather tannery and a lumber storage building and damaged 10 homes and the main building of the lumber yard. The loss was more than $200,000. The flames enveloped the frame two-and-a-half-story plant of the Peerless Tanning Co., Inc., despite the efforts of a group of employes. Explosions of tanning chemicals sent up clouds of black smoke.

Financial and Commercial

New York, April 12 (AP)—The stock market was moderately higher today in the early afternoon.

Producers of the Salk polio vaccine were in demand at higher prices, and most major divisions were ahead.

Gains ran to around 3 points while losses came to around 2 points. Most changes were small.

Trading was lively at times and hit a pace around 2½ million shares for the day. Yesterday's total in a slightly higher market was 2,600,000 shares.

Aircrafts were depressed today as they were yesterday on news of a projected Washington probe into aircraft profits.

Airlines were down slightly. Higher were the steels, motors, rubbers, chemicals, railroads, oils, utilities, and pharmacueuticals.

Lower were New York Central, Eastern Air Lines, American Smelting, American Can, Youngstown Sheet & Tube, Boeing, Douglas Aircrafts and General Dynamics.

He had arranged in advance to telephone to Washington his appraisal of the vaccine on the basis of the evaluation made public at Ann Arbor earlier today. Workmen went to Ann Arbor to speed up his report.

Parents of New York city school pupils signed the request for Salk vaccine prior to the official announcement at Ann Arbor, Mich., today of the vaccine's effectiveness.

THE SIGNED requests came from about 75 per cent of the 281,858 public, private and parochial school children who are eligible for the shots under the health department's present program.

Dr. Morris Greenberg, director of the health department's Bureau of Preventable Diseases, estimated that between 90 and 95 per cent of the parents of the eligible children will sign requests before the inoculation program starts April 25.

Rockslide Caused Crash

Albany, April 12 (AP)—A rockslide not more than 37 minutes before the accident has been blamed for the New York Central train derailment April 2 that injured 35 persons, one fatally. Testimony at a four-hour closed hearing yesterday revealed that another train passed the site of the accident at 5:28 p. m. The combined Pacemaker and Advance Commodore Vanderbilt plowed into the rock slide near Shodack Landing, about 15 miles south of Albany at 6:05 p. m.

Booked for Perjury

New York, April 12 (AP)—Two police narcotics squad detectives were booked today for alleged perjury before a grand jury investigating reports dope dealers bribed squad members. The detectives are Isaac Ezagui, 30, and Chester Mann, 32, both of Brooklyn. They were booked in connection with sealed indictments returned by the Brooklyn rackets grand jury, Aaron Koota, chief of the rackets division of the Brooklyn district attorney's office, told newsmen.

Oppose Bridge Design

Greenwich, Conn., April 12 (AP)—Army engineers heard yachtsmen and commercial interests oppose the design of the proposed Mianus river bridge of the Greenwich-Kilfingly expressway at a meeting here last night. The bridge, its purpose and its estimated $4,721,000 cost drew no other opposition. Col. Robert J. Fleming, U. S. Army engineer who presided at the public hearing, heard that the 45-foot clearance for which the bridge is designed would interfere with the free use of the river by sailing vessels and, perhaps, oil barges.

and Florida with 7. North Carolina went through its first year without an execution in a quarter-century. Vermont, which had had just two executions since 1930, carried out two more last year.

Of those put to death, 72 were convicted of murder, 9 of rape, and 1 of armed robbery. Two were women, both doomed for murder and both in Ohio.

THREE OF LAST year's executions were by hanging, 12 by lethal gas, and 67 by electrocution.

As of the end of the year, 147 prisoners were under the death penalty.

The bureau's statistics exclude military executions. However, Bennett noted separately that during 1954, the military reported three executions, one for murder, two for rape and murder.

Buy 'Piggyback' Cars

New York, April 12 (AP)—Patrick B. McGinnis, president of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad, announced today that the directors have authorized the purchase of 200 radically different, lightweight, low-center-of-gravity "piggyback" cars. The new cars will allow greater clearance through tunnels and under bridges, will incorporate aeronautical shock-absorbing principles and will be equipped with roller bearings. They will measure 75 feet in length compared with the 40-foot cars of the past, thus accommodating two trailers instead of one.

Prayer to Lenin for Candy Is Used to Indoctrinate Children

(Editor's note: It's Lenin versus God in the classrooms of communism. The making of a young Communist is detailed in this dispatch, second of a series surveying on the scene the problems created in the repatriation of Greek villagers abducted by Red guerrillas in Greece's 1947-49 civil war.)

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign News Analyst

Kastoria, Greece, April 12 (AP) —"Perhaps we would like some caramels," said the Romanian Communist teacher.

The Greek children, sitting on a blanket in the courtyard of a school in Bucharest chorused eager assent.

"All right," said the teacher. "Why don't you try praying to God for your caramels?"

Under her direction, the children prayed to God. Nothing happened.

"Now," said the teacher, "we shall pray to Lenin for caramels."

THE CHILDREN did as they were told. As if by magic, caramels showered on them from the windows of the school.

That was the beginning of Communist indoctrination for this group of children, newly abducted from their homeland during the Greek civil war of 1948.

These children, and many thousands like them, were selected for special pampering, for treatment far beyond what a Romanian child might expect. These children—or many like them—one day might have a Red mission in their homeland.

GRADUALLY, they were told they need not believe "all that silly stuff about God," that there was only one God and his name was Lenin, his prophet Stalin. All the rest was legend.

Adult repatriates newly arrived in this northern Greek town recount such things with fierce anger.

Many of the children were chosen for specialized indoctrination. Many others, particularly among those who were driven across the borders with their families at the height of the Red retreat, fell heir to harsh treatment instead.

IN ALL, possibly 50,000 persons either were driven or fled voluntarily across the borders in the civil war. Of these, about 28,000 by official Greek estimate were children. In virtually all cases, children were separated from parents and placed in special schools for training.

Athena Koranis, now 17, was one who did not get the special treatment. She arrived back in her native Greece last December and still lives in one of two abandoned schoolhouses in Kastoria. As many as 15 or 20 repatriates may be housed in a single schoolroom, sleeping in shifts.

HER EYES blazing, Athena said she was taken first to Albania, then to Romania, where the Communists placed her in a school set aside for certain of the Greek children.

"I remember when Stalin died," she recalled bitterly. "All the children in my class were lined up and ordered to cry. In the classroom they put a picture of Stalin, draped with black. One boy and one girl had to stand without moving as a guard of honor. For four hours, before they were relieved by another two, they were not allowed to move, even if a bug crawled on the nose. The teachers watched to see they did not move. Some of them collapsed."

"Did they teach the children to watch one another and report on one another?" I asked through an interpreter.

The girl jumped up excitedly.

"Oh, yes! They did! They did! They did!"

SHE WENT on pouring out the story of how children were taught to ridicule any of their number who shirked or believed in God. The children were told America was a place of slaves, where the workers were beaten and tortured. They were told if they went back to Greece they would be beaten and tortured by the "Monarcho-Fascists in the pay of the Americans."

But harsh treatment was the exception rather than the rule.

As the children learned to use modern tools and work at modern jobs, however, they were subjected to endless "political enlightenment" tied in with the idea that only in a Communist country could they hope to achieve a full life. In many cases, this indoctrination was effective. Many of the abducted Greek children never will return as Greeks loyal to a western-style democracy.

BUT MANY may return as a nucleus for the Greek Communist party, as Greek citizens free to move about Greece. The party now is illegal and underground in Greece. Its leadership is in Romania, and the bulk of its strength is among the guerrillas who fled in defeat across the Greek borders at the end of the civil war.

Infused generally back into the Greek body politic, even a small number of indoctrinated and convinced repatriates could represent an internal threat. Many Greek officials are seriously concerned.

STEPS ARE already being taken to counteract the Red propaganda among the young. The Queen's Schools operated under auspices of the Queen's fund, are available for the task. But of the 1,300 children thus far returned, only 280 are enrolled. They cannot be forced into the schools, because of a condition that the repatriates must be returned to the areas of their origin.

Greeks are still pondering the Communist crime and its implications. Why were the Greek children kidnaped in the first place?

TWO EXPLANATIONS are offered: The Communists may have been thinking in terms of preparing a future guerrilla fifth column. Greeks recall the words of the old Bolsheviks of Russia: "Give us a child of 10 and we will make of him such a Communist that nothing on earth will change."

Next story: Indoctrination by contrast.

Out of the Bag

Clovis, N. M. (AP) — Witness Paul Nisbett was a day late for a trial in Dist. Judge E. T. Hensley's court. Asked the judge: "Where were you?" Answered Nisbett: "Went fishing." Said the judge. "Ten days." Then Judge Hensley turned down Nisbett's plea that his fishing chum be allowed to bring him his sleeping bag. "Common jail," the judge ruled.

THIS CAR was a "total wreck", police said after it "rolled over twice and landed on its top" at Washington avenue and North Front street early Sunday, but its owner and driver, Donald G. Beesmer, 21, RD 4, Box 95, Kingston, reported no injuries. Officers Sheldon O'Rourke and Floyd Krom reported at 2:30 a. m., that the sedan was headed south on Washington avenue, turning left into North Front street. Beesmer told police the brakes locked and the car went out of control.

FOUNDATIONS

Every investor in America who expects to build a measure of financial security under himself must start with a foundation. It matters not how old or how young he is. And in these days of changing economic tides, when inflation or deflation may blow up, it is well to have a firm foundation.

Foundations are of great variety. Here is a young man just out of school who has landed his first job. He has character, capacity and courage. That is his present wealth. How does he build a foundation? By getting a position, by being thrifty, by saving money. He may say to himself: "If I save $500 a year for 40 years and invest the money in the best equities in America, by the time I am 65, I will have a competence."

Dozens of my former university students started saving 30 years ago and thrift and good capital management have made them financially independent by the age of 50. Social security, I am sorry to say, is dulling the sense of financial self-reliance in these inflationary days.

SOME EARNERS neglect building foundations until they are 35 or 40. Usually, at that age, something shocks them into doing so. In 1954, a brilliant commission salesman, 38, earning $20,000 a year on the average, was tragically reminded of his own bad spending habits when his pal, 57, (and a big producer) died suddenly, leaving a destitute family. This year he is saving $100 a week and habits of thrift and saving have vastly improved his sales efficiencies.

Widows who inherit insurance money need solid economic foundations. Every year hundreds of women are left partnerless and so many bewildering events enter their lives that they are overcome by it all. An inventory of all assets should usually be made. Then careful consideration should be given to the standard of living these assets, properly invested, can support.

All those who, getting a good start early in life, are blessed by affluence in their 50's, 60's and 70's, should forever remember that economic foundations should be continually deepened and broadened. Thus, one of my best Columbia University students, who started from scratch financially in 1922, became so successful before he was 50 that he found himself paying 75% to 85% of his income to Uncle Sam in federal taxes.

How did he change his foundation? By creating a taxfree institution through which he could contribute yearly to hospitals, universities, churches and the like.

The significant thing about sound economic foundations is that, if they are well built, a hundred Fulbright studies, a period of deflation, a surge of inflation, unbalanced budgets in Washington, crackpot political-economic events and many other fearsome tides will not unduly affect those who have invested wisely.

The average person who has never spent an hour thinking through an adequate plan for his own financial salvation can easily be swayed by the conflicting tides of the times. There is far too much of this in America.

Financial security is but one phase of life, but it is a highly important one.

Stock market averages, so important to so many people, pale into insignificance when one builds a good foundation of frugality, industry, saving and investment.

Prayer to Lenin for Candy Is Used to Indoctrinate Children

(Editor's note: It's Lenin versus God in the classrooms of communism. The making of a young Communist is detailed in this dispatch, second of a series surveying on the scene the problems created in the repatriation of Greek villagers abducted by Red guerrillas in Greece's 1947-49 civil war.)

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign News Analyst

Kastoria, Greece, April 12 (AP) —"Perhaps we would like some caramels," said the Romanian Communist teacher.

The Greek children, sitting on a blanket in the courtyard of a school in Bucharest chorused eager assent.

"All right," said the teacher. "Why don't you try praying to God for your caramels?"

Under her direction, the children prayed to God. Nothing happened.

"Now," said the teacher, "we shall pray to Lenin for caramels."

THE CHILDREN did as they were told. As if by magic, caramels showered on them from the windows of the school.

That was the beginning of Communist indoctrination for this group of children, newly abducted from their homeland during the Greek civil war of 1948.

These children, and many thousands like them, were selected for special pampering, for treatment far beyond what a Romanian child might expect. These children—or many like them—one day might have a Red mission in their homeland.

GRADUALLY, they were told they need not believe "all that silly stuff about God," that there was only one God and his name was Lenin, his prophet Stalin. All the rest was legend.

Adult repatriates newly arrived in this northern Greek town recount such things with fierce anger.

Many of the children were chosen for specialized indoctrination. Many others, particularly among those who were driven across the borders with their families at the height of the Red retreat, fell heir to harsh treatment instead.

IN ALL, possibly 50,000 persons either were driven or fled voluntarily across the borders in the civil war. Of these, about 28,000 by official Greek estimate were children. In virtually all cases, children were separated from parents and placed in special schools for training.

Athena Koranis, now 17, was one who did not get the special treatment. She arrived back in her native Greece last December and still lives in one of two abandoned schoolhouses in Kastoria. As many as 15 or 20 repatriates may be housed in a single schoolroom, sleeping in shifts.

HER EYES blazing, Athena said she was taken first to Albania, then to Romania, where the Communists placed her in a school set aside for certain of the Greek children.

"I remember when Stalin died," she recalled bitterly. "All the children in my class were lined up and ordered to cry. In the classroom they put a picture of Stalin, draped with black. One boy and one girl had to stand without moving as a guard of honor. For four hours, before they were relieved by another two, they were not allowed to move, even if a bug crawled on the nose. The teachers watched to see they did not move. Some of them collapsed."

"Did they teach the children to watch one another and report on one another?" I asked through an interpreter.

The girl jumped up excitedly.

"Oh, yes! They did! They did! They did!"

SHE WENT on pouring out the story of how children were taught to ridicule any of their number who shirked or believed in God. The children were told America was a place of slaves, where the workers were beaten and tortured. They were told if they went back to Greece they would be beaten and tortured by the "Monarcho-Fascists in the pay of the Americans."

But harsh treatment was the exception rather than the rule.

As the children learned to use modern tools and work at modern jobs, however, they were subjected to endless "political enlightenment" tied in with the idea that only in a Communist country could they hope to achieve a full life. In many cases, this indoctrination was effective. Many of the abducted Greek children never will return as Greeks loyal to a western-style democracy.

BUT MANY may return as a nucleus for the Greek Communist party, as Greek citizens free to move about Greece. The party now is illegal and underground in Greece. Its leadership is in Romania, and the bulk of its strength is among the guerrillas who fled in defeat across the Greek borders at the end of the civil war.

Infused generally back into the Greek body politic, even a small number of indoctrinated and convinced repatriates could represent an internal threat. Many Greek officials are seriously concerned.

STEPS ARE already being taken to counteract the Red propaganda among the young. The Queen's Schools operated under auspices of the Queen's fund, are available for the task. But of the 1,300 children thus far returned, only 280 are enrolled. They cannot be forced into the schools, because of a condition that the repatriates must be returned to the areas of their origin.

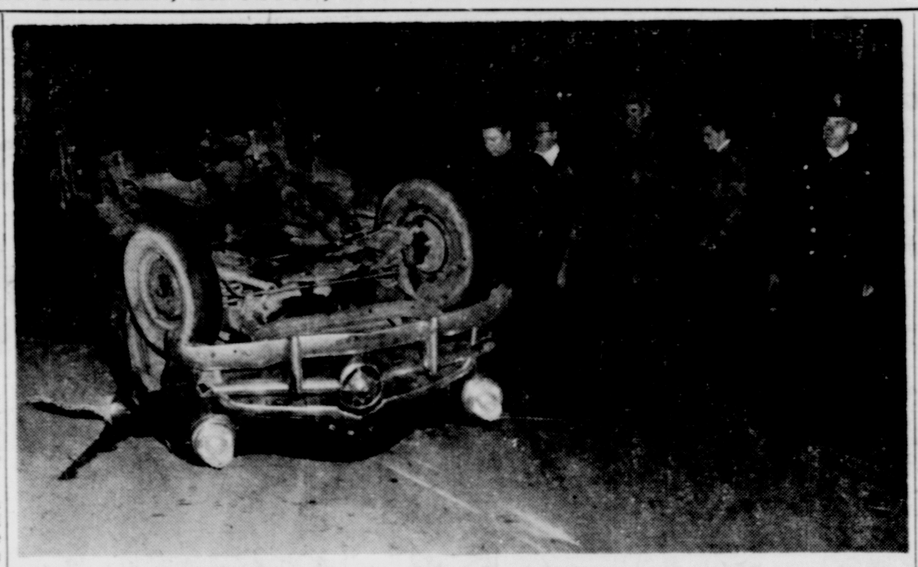
Greeks are still pondering the Communist crime and its implications. Why were the Greek children kidnaped in the first place?

TWO EXPLANATIONS are offered: The Communists may have been thinking in terms of preparing a future guerrilla fifth column. Greeks recall the words of the old Bolsheviks of Russia: "Give us a child of 10 and we will make of him such a Communist that nothing on earth will change."

Next story: Indoctrination by contrast.

Out of the Bag

Clovis, N. M. (AP) — Witness Paul Nisbett was a day late for a trial in Dist. Judge E. T. Hensley's court. Asked the judge: "Where were you?" Answered Nisbett: "Went fishing." Said the judge. "Ten days." Then Judge Hensley turned down Nisbett's plea that his fishing chum be allowed to bring him his sleeping bag. "Common jail," the judge ruled.



THIS CAR was a "total wreck", police said after it "rolled over twice and landed on its top" at Washington avenue and North Front street early Sunday, but its owner and driver, Donald G. Beesmer, 21, RD 4, Box 95, Kingston, reported no injuries. Officers Sheldon O'Rourke and Floyd Krom reported at 2:30 a. m., that the sedan was headed south on Washington avenue, turning left into North Front street. Beesmer told police the brakes locked and the car went out of control.

FOUNDATIONS

Every investor in America who expects to build a measure of financial security under himself must start with a foundation. It matters not how old or how young he is. And in these days of changing economic tides, when inflation or deflation may blow up, it is well to have a firm foundation.

Foundations are of great variety. Here is a young man just out of school who has landed his first job. He has character, capacity and courage. That is his present wealth. How does he build a foundation? By getting a position, by being thrifty, by saving money. He may say to himself: "If I save $500 a year for 40 years and invest the money in the best equities in America, by the time I am 65, I will have a competence."

Dozens of my former university students started saving 30 years ago and thrift and good capital management have made them financially independent by the age of 50. Social security, I am sorry to say, is dulling the sense of financial self-reliance in these inflationary days.

SOME EARNERS neglect building foundations until they are 35 or 40. Usually, at that age, something shocks them into doing so. In 1954, a brilliant commission salesman, 38, earning $20,000 a year on the average, was tragically reminded of his own bad spending habits when his pal, 57, (and a big producer) died suddenly, leaving a destitute family. This year he is saving $100 a week and habits of thrift and saving have vastly improved his sales efficiencies.

Widows who inherit insurance money need solid economic foundations. Every year hundreds of women are left partnerless and so many bewildering events enter their lives that they are overcome by it all. An inventory of all assets should usually be made. Then careful consideration should be given to the standard of living these assets, properly invested, can support.

All those who, getting a good start early in life, are blessed by affluence in their 50's, 60's and 70's, should forever remember that economic foundations should be continually deepened and broadened. Thus, one of my best Columbia University students, who started from scratch financially in 1922, became so successful before he was 50 that he found himself paying 75% to 85% of his income to Uncle Sam in federal taxes.

How did he change his foundation? By creating a taxfree institution through which he could contribute yearly to hospitals, universities, churches and the like.

The significant thing about sound economic foundations is that, if they are well built, a hundred Fulbright studies, a period of deflation, a surge of inflation, unbalanced budgets in Washington, crackpot political-economic events and many other fearsome tides will not unduly affect those who have invested wisely.

The average person who has never spent an hour thinking through an adequate plan for his own financial salvation can easily be swayed by the conflicting tides of the times. There is far too much of this in America.

Financial security is but one phase of life, but it is a highly important one.

Stock market averages, so important to so many people, pale into insignificance when one builds a good foundation of frugality, industry, saving and investment.

THEY STAYED HOME

They'll say, of course, that the victory of Richard Daley, Democrat, over Robert Merriam, Republican, in the Chicago mayoralty election proves that the Democratic city machine is just too strong.

Certainly it isn't feeble, for it helped provide Daley with a margin of more than 125,000 votes in what the polls had indicated might be a very close election.

As Democratic triumphs generally go in Chicago, however, that's not exactly whooping. In fact it was the closest race since 1943.

But the fact remains that the Chicago Democratic organization still had enough of its old power to turn the trick once more, despite growing evidence of a tight alliance between politics and crime, despite signs that some Democrats worked vigorously to prevent further disclosures of such a link, despite the energetic crusade against the alliance by the Republican reform nominee, Merriam.

Maybe the way to look at this election, the only important one in the nation this year, is to turn the coin over. The Democratic machine won, it might be said, because the citizens of Chicago were not sufficiently aroused about the crime-politics issue to do anything about it.

Substance for this view can be found in figures on the vote turnout—fewer than 1,300,000 and one of the lightest in many a mayoralty contest. To win, Merriam needed a big flood at the polls. He didn't get it.

The history of American city elections shows beyond doubt that no machine is stronger than an aroused people. If the citizens are really stirred up, angry, thirsting for reform, they can make any machine fall apart. They've done it in New York, Philadelphia, Cincinnati, Jersey City and many another place.

In Merriam, Chicagoans had a young, vigorous, thoroughly trained public servant dedicated to reform and backed by the most forward-looking elements of his party. If ever opportunity for better city government beckoned, this would seem to have been the time.

But Chicagoans weren't interested, evidently, in either Merriam or his crusade against crime. They stayed home, in impressive numbers. And when voters stay home, a machine doesn't have to be very strong to win.

FILIBUSTER RECORD

Americans like to break records. That feeling may have partly influenced Jimmy Phillips, a Texas state senator, when he broke the national filibuster record.

Arguing for an increased appropriation for a hospital, Phillips talked for 23 hours and 35 minutes. All in vain. When he finally gave up, the senate passed the appropriation bill without the provision he favored. At least he had broken the record set by United States Senator Wayne Morse of Oregon, who in April, 1953, talked 22 hours and 26 minutes in a futile effort to defeat the bill turning offshore oil deposits over to a few states.

Glorying in one's past accomplishments may be fun, but it is hardly the true method to future success. It is far better, when approaching the new day's work, to discard as of no value what was done yesterday and before.

LONG-LIVED CANDIDATES

The death of John W. Davis, Democratic presidential nominee in 1924, is a reminder that not many former candidates are still alive. For the Republicans, beside President Eisenhower, only Herbert Hoover, Alf M. Landon and Thomas E. Dewey still survive. The Democrats have only James M. Cox, Harry S. Truman and Adlai E. Stevenson.

James M. Cox, who bore the Democratic banner in 1920, is the patriarch of them all. Still flourishing at 85, he made his race 35 years ago, a new record in survival for a presidential nominee. He has thus lived to surpass John C. Fremont, the Republicans' first presidential candidate, who ran in 1856 and lived 34 years more.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

IT ALWAYS COMES

It does not matter that we have had an additional month this year to pay the income tax; the same old horror comes around in due course to take what is left after a year's work. No more little or big accumulation to be invested or spent; it all goes to the tax collector.

T. Coleman Andrews, Commissioner of Internal Revenue, one of the best we have ever had, is probably doing more to make the country conscious of the burden of the income tax than any of his predecessors, because he is instituting efficient methods of collecting this revenue. He makes it tough in accordance with Acts of Congress, and the tougher he makes it, the more the taxpayer will become conscious of what is happening to him and his family.

I do not say this in disparagement of Mr. Andrews, who does his duty as the law provides. The income tax law is to blame; it has become a mad hodge-podge of provisions until the forms are so complex and the rules and regulations so confusing, that one hardly knows what to do. If one earns a bit more than his neighbor and gets up into what are called the middle brackets, he really needs a bookkeeper to watch over him, particularly if he buys a man a drink or a dinner. He needs to decide whether this is just sociability or is he trying to get into the good graces of the individual in the hope of some day selling him an insurance policy or something? One may be deducted as a business expense, the other not, and how do you decide which is which and how can you prove what your motive was at the moment?

The income tax is a device by which the middle class of a country is gradually wiped out. Those who have inherited wealth need not worry about it as long as they have accumulations of inherited capital to live on. That too will go through the inheritance taxes, inflation and such devices. But while it lasts, it is good. Those who have savings to invest can benefit through capital gains, but that system of saving some reservoirs of private capital is now being criticized.

The Middle Class in the United States is exceptional in that it includes many laborers who in Europe would be of the proletariat. It might roughly be described as those who earn from $10,000 to $50,000 a year. A very large part of the American people are in this category and they are the hardest hit by this tax, particularly if they are self-employed, as most professional and small business men are. At the present time such elements in our population are being squeezed between the income tax and the high cost of living and will, if the system continues, be reduced to the proletariat.

The shortage of school teachers, of nurses, of certain types of engineers, even of general practitioners among the doctors, is, in a measure, due to the fact that the final take-home pay is too small to keep one living on the standards which are expected of such people. It could be more sensible to drive a truck and to belong to Dave Beck's union.

There is increasing talk of substituting a transaction tax for the income tax, and although the talk is not yet serious, the fact that a substitute is being discussed could mean that when the law of diminishing returns sets in, a way will have to be found to save what is left of American capitalism. If strikes take place, such as the projected automobile strike, collections are bound to go down, while our commitments remain the same.

Tax collectors are never popular and T. Coleman Andrews is a wise enough man to have known what he was doing when he took on the job of being the greatest tax collector in the world. Perhaps one day, he will retreat from this occupation, and out of his unusual experience will advise our people what they ought to do about taxes. Surely, they cannot go on pretending that they live in a private enterprise system when so large a share of their earnings is taken by the government. Karl Marx was right about the graduated income tax; it is the best means for destroying the capitalist system.

HEREDITY AND HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE

The problem of high blood pressure is receiving a great deal of attention these days from the viewpoint of new forms of treatment, new drugs which lower blood pressure at least temporarily, and even various forms of surgery in some cases. It is certainly true that high blood pressure is one of the bugbears of our modern civilization; it does not occur nearly as often in primitive communities or in those where the pace of everyday living is in a slower gear. We have mentioned before the finding that an American going to live in the East often notes a lowering in his blood pressure, whereas a Chinese, coming to live in America, will often find an elevation in his blood pressure.

It is only natural that our research men should be working hard on remedies for the lowering of high blood pressure once it has occurred, but is there any way in which we can foretell just which persons are likely to be afflicted with high blood pressure as they become older? Drs. C. D'Alonzo, A. J. Fleming and G. H. Gehrmann of the medical division of the great firm of E. I. du Pont de Nemours have conducted a very interesting study into the part that heredity plays in the problem of high blood pressure in industrial workers. It is the policy of this company to give a pre-employment physical examination and a very complete annual examination thereafter, so that records were available in many instances dating back from five to 25 years. Seven hundred and ninety-nine of these employes, over 40 years of age, were selected at random for study with respect to their family history so far as disease of the heart and blood vessels was concerned in their parents, brothers and sisters.

What was found in this study? It was found that if neither parent had cardiovascular (heart and blood vessel) disease, then the rate among the children to have cardiovascular disease was 95 per 1,000. If one parent had cardiovascular disease, the children had it at the rate of 133 per 1,000 and if both parents were so affected, the children had it at the rate of 149 per 1,000. Another interesting point brought out was that the larger the family, the less likely were the children to have the condition. This would seem to suggest the likelihood of inheriting the tendency to cardiovascular disease is "diluted" with increasing family size.

How can this idea that family history is an important factor in high blood pressure help us? "This finding suggests that a knowledge of family history might be of practical value in such matters as job placement in relation to present or future physical capacity of employes and in the follow-up and possible prevention of this importan problem. Susceptible employes should be spotted before the onset of hypertension (high blood pressure) and attempts made to modify or prevent the processes thought to be contributing factors."

The Shout Heard 'Round the World

Edson's Washington News Notebook

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington — (NEA) — Every area in the United States that gets public power has an interest in the Tennessee Valley Authority's new plan to finance continued growth. The plan calls for authorizing TVA to sell revenue bonds and to make lease-purchase agreements with other public agencies to acquire new power facilities.

Champions of public power may see in the new TVA plan a deep dark plot to scuttle the agency. First analysis in Washington, however, indicates this may be a lifesaving plan for public power. It could prevent TVA and other similar agencies from being frozen at present size or from being broken up and sold to private interests.

This is the TVA directors' and staff's own idea. They have been working on it for months. It is the TVA hope that the Budget Bureau and White House will recommend the plan to Congress.

Congressmen from the Tennessee Valley states are at present unenthusiastic about opening up the TVA Act to amendments.

IN ADDITION TO GOOD amendments, improving the TVA act and making TVA more of an independent operating agency it was feared that some bad amendment might be offered crippling the agency or killing it outright.

The timing on having to amend the TVA act now is considered unfortunate, inasmuch as the controversial Dixon-Yates contract is still hanging fire.

How the private power industry will react to TVA's plan to keep going will be a major point to watch. Up to now, private power industry spokesmen have maintained that if TVA were just forced to pay interest on its capital, pay the equivalent of taxes and other fixed charges, the government's power operations would be evenly competitive.

The new TVA financing plan would in effect meet these objections. And TVA spokesmen in Washington say that if this plan is adopted by Congress in its entirety and without further curbs, TVA power rates would not have to be raised. This would be possible by maintaining present operating efficiency which keeps TVA's costs down.

THE REASON THAT THE TVA directors were forced to come up with their new financing plan was simply that the Eisenhower administration has cut down on new money for expansion.

For the fiscal year ending June 30, 1954, TVA new authorizations to complete projects under way totaled $188 million. For the present fiscal year, the authorization is $120 million. For next year only $27 million have been requested. No new projects have been authorized.

Up to now, the only money TVA could use for expansion has been reinvestment of revenues from the sale of power or new congressional appropriations. In the past it has taken from six months to two years for Congress to act. Some projects, like the Fulton, Tenn., steam plant to supply more power to Memphis, haven't been approved at all.

UNDER THE NEW TVA plan, the agency could act like any private utility in financing its expansion by the public sale of revenue bonds. Alternatively these bonds could be sold to the Treasury as trust fund investment, if that were found advantageous.

Still another method of financing would be through a "lease-purchase" agreement with local public agencies. These would be compacts of states, municipalities or public power cooperatives. They could raise the money to build needed power plants. TVA would then buy the power produced or lease the facility. After the costs plus interest had been repaid, the facility would become a part of the TVA system.

The possibility of having a private utility group build such a facility would not be ruled out. This was the essence of the Walter Von Tresckow group plan to build the Fulton steam plant for a $4 million fee, ultimately turning it over to TVA to own and operate as part of its power grid.

Whether the new TVA plan would be amended to legitimize or regularize the Dixon-Yates type of contract would of course be up to Congress. TVA is not asking for that.

Firm Stand by United States in Quemoy Case Called Key to Nation's Asian Prestige

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, April 12—If the Chinese Communists really want not only the Quemoy and Matsu islands but also Formosa, there's a simple formula by which they might get the entire package without firing a shot and without bringing on a major war in the Far East. Here are the steps.

1. Persuade the western allies to influence President Eisenhower to announce that he will not use any American military force to defend the offshore islands of the Quemoys and Matsus.

2. Get as many American senators as possible to intimate that recognition of Red China and admission to the United Nations is coming soon.

3. Get as many senators as possible to say, as one high-ranking Democrat on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee said the other day, that America isn't interested in supporting the government of Chiang Kai-shek and that, if Mr. Eisenhower will only say the word, the other senators will favor recognition of Red China and admission to the United Nations.

4. Start talking about a "plebiscite" to be held on Formosa — as many Democratic members of the House of Representatives are saying in line with the view of many Laborites in the British Parliament.

5. Omit all mention of any plebiscite or of uncoerced and free elections inside Red China and bear down heavily on the idea that it is Chiang Kai-shek who has to be driven from power. This is the way the government of Chiang was undermined in 1949 by the Truman-Acheson policies. The end result will be wholesale defections of Nationalist troops on Formosa. The Red Chinese would then take over without a shot being fired.

FOR MANY DAYS the Communist strategy, which certainly has been to divide the allies and weaken Chiang's hold on Formosa, has been developing to the point where even some of those who advocate a withdrawal from the Quemoys and Matsus by the Nationalists concede that this would irreparably damage the morale of the Chiang forces on Formosa.

But what alternative is offered? Usually it is suggested that American soldiers be stationed on Formosa to bolster the morale of Chiang's troops. That's involvement on a major scale, and the American people wouldn't like that, so the suggestion is really a specious one and hardly would be acceptable to the Eisenhower administration.

The future of freedom in Asia and, in fact, the prestige of the United States and the western powers are at stake today in the issue of the Quemoy and Matsu islands. They have a moral importance perhaps greater than their strategic value. For what they have come to mean today is a policy of retreat or of firmness. It is conceded now that the military operations in Korea, with more than 140,000 American casualties, didn't convince the Asian people at all that the west was victorious but merely that the United Nations retreated across the 38th Parallel and wouldn't fight for the rest of Korea even after her forces had been there. The simple military facts describe this as a defeat in Asian eyes.

NOW, WITH the United States represented as wavering and with a resolution introduced by some Democratic senators urging the United States to announce a refusal to defend the Quemoy and Matsu islands, the Communists may be encouraged to believe that maybe in due time this minority view will become the majority view of the Congress.

President Eisenhower, however, has a realistic understanding of what is implied by the subtle campaign being waged to break down the morale of Nationalist troops on Formosa. Mr. Eisenhower recently told his press conference:

"A terrific burden would depend upon the forces and the people occupying Formosa as to the possibility of its defense.

"You have to have forces there who are of high morale, who have something in which to believe if they are going to fight well, as that is the only way men fight. They don't fight just to get out and shoot at each other, so they must believe in something. And we must be careful not to destroy their morale. And that is a factor that you must always calculate when you talk about surrendering this place or that place or doing anything else."

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

I have been trying to understand the popular attitude in our confused and bothered country toward "celebrities" who continue to thrive notwithstanding disclosures about them and confessions by them. By standards which public opinion enforced a few years ago, these persons would have been widely ostracized.

Grover Bergdoll, the "slacker," was held in loathing by most Americans of even perfunctory patriotism. He had refused to serve in the First World War. He was the descendant of a long line of Germans who were, for all we could say to the contrary, as good as typical Americans. He refused to fight against his own blood. He rejected propaganda depicting France as an attractive, feminine nation, foully set upon by a shaggy brute. This was a version which many Americans have since revised. Bergdoll had great courage and determination. But we damned him utterly because he did not believe as we did and refused to go to a war to preserve the British empire against the challenge of Wilhelm, who was planting his flag on much unclaimed real estate. Like George V, across the North Sea, he had proclaimed himself "emperor", with as little justification.

Whatever the merits of Bergdoll's case, he is historic as a slacker.

I am perplexed by other particular cases which were disclosed after our Second World War. One was a Hollywood actor. By the acknowledged theatrical standards he is a genius. Since VJ-Day he has, oddly, enjoyed the favor of the present British empress and other members of the royal circle. This man's conduct was flagrant. When he was called up he gave an impression of great nervousness. After some time, thanks to the intervention of influential persons who had a financial stake in his career, he was excused and his file was withdrawn or destroyed. General Hershey, the director of the draft, said this fellow appeared so much afraid that it was deemed wise to be rid of him lest he cause panic among others in battle. That was his bureau's policy and would continue to be unless large numbers of draftees should pretend to be afraid, even though they were not, in order to escape danger. This man was so timorous that even the USO was forbidden to send him anywhere overseas as an entertainer.

Yet, he has gone on and on to wealth and acclaim. At gala premieres on Broadway, prominent Americans elbow and scuffle to be photographed with him.

There is another type of case. Soon after Pearl Harbor he, this one proudly flaunted in theatrical hangouts a 1-A card and said he would be glad to fight against Nazi-Fascism. But a year or so later the news was published that he was eating his heart out because a doctor had disqualified him. He never went overseas even to entertain. He was a quarrelsome individual and sometimes he overbid his hand. In Chicago, a young roughneck reporter from back of the yards, lately home from war in the Pacific, offended this temperamental star, who threatened to bat his ears off. The young roughneck said, "Where? When?" and tried to pull him out of a transport plane. Later it developed that the great artist had given a large donation to a democratic campaign fund. He is to this day a great celebrity notwithstanding a scandalous life.

Ed Sullivan, who never tires of telling of a close call he had in the first World War, when he almost enlisted in the Marines, has a remarkably soft spot for this type of underprivileged person. He tried to rescue Paul Draper from boycott and oblivion after Draper and Larry Adler had put to legal persecution a young matron of Greenwich, Conn., who had, so they said, accused them of being pro-Communist. They immediately slapped an attachment on her home and small bank account. Her distress was indeed pathetic. But Sullivan took it upon himself to try to rehabilitate Draper by using him on a radio program. The effort did not succeed. Incidentally, Draper and Adler were content with a hung jury and withdrew their suit.

Another time, Sullivan said Frank Sinatra was "for" the underprivileged and implied that whoever refused to admire him was hostile to children of "minorities."

This indorsement was expressed in the face of Sinatra's connection with a debauch in Havana with Lucky Luciano and other FBI characters all involved in narcotics, prostitution or "syndicate" gambling. It was long after he had backed with money an underworld blackmailer who started a filthy weekly in Hollywood and finally went to prison for a long term.

Again, Sullivan passionately defended Josephine Baker, an elderly kooch dancer who had kicked up disorder in the Stork Club by prearranged design. This woman is now barred from the United States for many utterances hostile to the country and our people. Sullivan saluted her as a great artist and brave fighter for American principles.

Only a few days ago, he wrote a sentimental but erroneous column about a movie director who was a Communist but quit. Sullivan said this brave decision had proved that Hollywood was cordial to enemies of communism. His facts were faulty, for this hero of his had run with the party for years when that was the stylish and profitable course. He did quit but he was loath to name his comrades at first. And when he did, the names were old stuff, already notorious. So he did nothing to earn Sullivan's applause. And communism is still stylish in Hollywood under false names.

As far as I know, Sullivan has not yet knighted James Roosevelt but he may get around to it. The bald eaglet of the dynasty is an excellent example of the public apathy toward violations of old standards. His letter blackening the reputations of a dozen married women needs no retelling now. It elected him to Congress. Of itself, the letter is only incidental to the fact that nowadays nothing nauseating makes Americans sick.

THEY STAYED HOME

They'll say, of course, that the victory of Richard Daley, Democrat, over Robert Merriam, Republican, in the Chicago mayoralty election proves that the Democratic city machine is just too strong.

Certainly it isn't feeble, for it helped provide Daley with a margin of more than 125,000 votes in what the polls had indicated might be a very close election.

As Democratic triumphs generally go in Chicago, however, that's not exactly whooping. In fact it was the closest race since 1943.

But the fact remains that the Chicago Democratic organization still had enough of its old power to turn the trick once more, despite growing evidence of a tight alliance between politics and crime, despite signs that some Democrats worked vigorously to prevent further disclosures of such a link, despite the energetic crusade against the alliance by the Republican reform nominee, Merriam.

Maybe the way to look at this election, the only important one in the nation this year, is to turn the coin over. The Democratic machine won, it might be said, because the citizens of Chicago were not sufficiently aroused about the crime-politics issue to do anything about it.

Substance for this view can be found in figures on the vote turnout—fewer than 1,300,000 and one of the lightest in many a mayoralty contest. To win, Merriam needed a big flood at the polls. He didn't get it.

The history of American city elections shows beyond doubt that no machine is stronger than an aroused people. If the citizens are really stirred up, angry, thirsting for reform, they can make any machine fall apart. They've done it in New York, Philadelphia, Cincinnati, Jersey City and many another place.

In Merriam, Chicagoans had a young, vigorous, thoroughly trained public servant dedicated to reform and backed by the most forward-looking elements of his party. If ever opportunity for better city government beckoned, this would seem to have been the time.

But Chicagoans weren't interested, evidently, in either Merriam or his crusade against crime. They stayed home, in impressive numbers. And when voters stay home, a machine doesn't have to be very strong to win.

FILIBUSTER RECORD

Americans like to break records. That feeling may have partly influenced Jimmy Phillips, a Texas state senator, when he broke the national filibuster record.

Arguing for an increased appropriation for a hospital, Phillips talked for 23 hours and 35 minutes. All in vain. When he finally gave up, the senate passed the appropriation bill without the provision he favored. At least he had broken the record set by United States Senator Wayne Morse of Oregon, who in April, 1953, talked 22 hours and 26 minutes in a futile effort to defeat the bill turning offshore oil deposits over to a few states.

Glorying in one's past accomplishments may be fun, but it is hardly the true method to future success. It is far better, when approaching the new day's work, to discard as of no value what was done yesterday and before.

LONG-LIVED CANDIDATES

The death of John W. Davis, Democratic presidential nominee in 1924, is a reminder that not many former candidates are still alive. For the Republicans, beside President Eisenhower, only Herbert Hoover, Alf M. Landon and Thomas E. Dewey still survive. The Democrats have only James M. Cox, Harry S. Truman and Adlai E. Stevenson.

James M. Cox, who bore the Democratic banner in 1920, is the patriarch of them all. Still flourishing at 85, he made his race 35 years ago, a new record in survival for a presidential nominee. He has thus lived to surpass John C. Fremont, the Republicans' first presidential candidate, who ran in 1856 and lived 34 years more.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

IT ALWAYS COMES

It does not matter that we have had an additional month this year to pay the income tax; the same old horror comes around in due course to take what is left after a year's work. No more little or big accumuation to be invested or spent; it all goes to the tax collector.

T. Coleman Andrews, Commissioner of Internal Revenue, one of the best we have ever had, is probably doing more to make the country conscious of the burden of the income tax than any of his predecessors, because he is instituting efficient methods of collecting this revenue. He makes it tough in accordance with Acts of Congress, and the tougher he makes it, the more the taxpayer will become conscious of what is happening to him and his family.

I do not say this in disparagement of Mr. Andrews, who does his duty as the law provides. The income tax law is to blame; it has become a mad hodge-podge of provisions until the forms are so complex and the rules and regulations so confusing, that one hardly knows what to do. If one earns a bit more than his neighbor and gets up into what are called the middle brackets, he really needs a bookkeeper to watch over him, particularly if he buys a man a drink or a dinner. He needs to decide whether this is just sociability or is he trying to get into the good graces of the individual in the hope of some day selling him an insurance policy or something? One may be deducted as a business expense, the other not, and how do you decide which is which and how can you prove what your motive was at the moment?

The income tax is a device by which the middle class of a country is gradually wiped out. Those who have inherited wealth need not worry about it as long as they have accumulations of inherited capital to live on. That too will go through the inheritance taxes, inflation and such devices. But while it lasts, it is good. Those who have savings to invest can benefit through capital gains, but that system of saving some reservoirs of private capital is now being criticized.

The Middle Class in the United States is exceptional in that it includes many laborers who in Europe would be of the proletariat. It might roughly be described as those who earn from $10,000 to $50,000 a year. A very large part of the American people are in this category and they are the hardest hit by this tax, particularly if they are self-employed, as most professional and small business men are. At the present time such elements in our population are being squeezed between the income tax and the high cost of living and will, if the system continues, be reduced to the proletariat.

The shortage of school teachers, of nurses, of certain types of engineers, even of general practitioners among the doctors, is, in a measure, due to the fact that the final take-home pay is too small to keep one living on the standards which are expected of such people. It could be more sensible to drive a truck and to belong to Dave Beck's union.

There is increasing talk of substituting a transaction tax for the income tax, and although the talk is not yet serious, the fact that a substitute is being discussed could mean that when the law of diminishing returns sets in, a way will have to be found to save what is left of American capitalism. If strikes take place, such as the projected automobile strike, collections are bound to go down, while our commitments remain the same.

Tax collectors are never popular and T. Coleman Andrews is a wise enough man to have known what he was doing when he took on the job of being the greatest tax collector in the world. Perhaps one day, he will retreat from this occupation, and out of his unusual experience will advise our people what they ought to do about taxes. Surely, they cannot go on pretending that they live in a private enterprise system when so large a share of their earnings is taken by the government. Karl Marx was right about the graduated income tax; it is the best means for destroying the capitalist system.

HEREDITY AND HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE

The problem of high blood pressure is receiving a great deal of attention these days from the viewpoint of new forms of treatment, new drugs which lower blood pressure at least temporarily, and even various forms of surgery in some cases. It is the policy of this company to give a pre-employment physical examination and a very complete annual examination thereafter, so that records were available in many instances dating back from five to 25 years. Seven hundred and ninety-nine of these employes, over 40 years of age, were selected at random for study with respect to their family history so far as disease of the heart and blood vessels was concerned in their parents, brothers and sisters.

What was found in this study? It was found that if neither parent had cardiovascular (heart and blood vessel) disease, then the rate among the children to have cardiovascular disease was 95 per 1,000. If one parent had cardiovascular disease, the children had it at the rate of 133 per 1,000 and if both parents were so affected, the children had it at the rate of 149 per 1,000. Another interesting point brought out was that the larger the family, the less likely were the children to have the condition. This would seem to suggest the likelihood of inheriting the tendency to cardiovascular disease is "diluted" with increasing family size.

THE REASON THAT THE TVA directors were forced to come up with their new financing plan was simply that the Eisenhower administration has cut down on new money for expansion.

For the fiscal year ending June 30, 1954, TVA new authorizations to complete projects under way totaled $188 million. For the present fiscal year, the authorization is $120 million. For next year only $27 million have been requested. No new projects have been authorized.

Up to now, the only money TVA could use for expansion has been reinvestment of revenues from the sale of power or new congressional appropriations. In the past it has taken from six months to two years for Congress to act. Some projects, like the Fulton, Tenn., steam plant to supply more power to Memphis, haven't been approved at all.

UNDER THE NEW TVA plan, the agency could act like any private utility in financing its expansion by the public sale of revenue bonds. Alternatively these bonds could be sold to the Treasury as trust fund investment, if that were found advantageous.

Still another method of financing would be through a "lease-purchase" agreement with local public agencies. These would be compacts of states, municipalities or public power cooperatives. They could raise the money to build needed power plants. TVA would then buy the power produced or lease the facility. After the costs plus interest had been repaid, the facility would become a part of the TVA system.

The possibility of having a private utility group build such a facility would not be ruled out. This was the essence of the Walter Von Tresckow group plan to build the Fulton steam plant for a $4 million fee, ultimately turning it over to TVA to own and operate as part of its power grid.

Whether the new TVA plan would be amended to legitimize or regularize the Dixon-Yates type of contract would of course be up to Congress. TVA is not asking for that.

Firm Stand by United States in Quemoy Case Called Key to Nation's Asian Prestige

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, April 12—If the Chinese Communists really want not only the Quemoy and Matsu islands but also Formosa, there's a simple formula by which they might get the entire package without firing a shot and without bringing on a major war in the Far East. Here are the steps.

1. Persuade the western allies to influence President Eisenhower to announce that he will not use any American military force to defend the offshore islands of the Quemoys and Matsus.

2. Get as many American senators as possible to intimate that recognition of Red China and admission to the United Nations is coming soon.

3. Get as many senators as possible to say, as one high-ranking Democrat on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee said the other day, that America isn't interested in supporting the government of Chiang Kai-shek and that, if Mr. Eisenhower will only say the word, the other senators will favor recognition of Red China and admission to the United Nations.

4. Start talking about a "plebiscite" to be held on Formosa — as many Democratic members of the House of Representatives are saying in line with the view of many Laborites in the British Parliament.

5. Omit all mention of any plebiscite or of uncoerced and free elections inside Red China and bear down heavily on the idea that it is Chiang Kai-shek who has to be driven from power. This is the way the government of Chiang was undermined in 1949 by the Truman-Acheson policies. The end result will be wholesale defections of Nationalist troops on Formosa. The Red Chinese would then take over without a shot being fired.

FOR MANY DAYS the Communist strategy, which certainly has been to divide the allies and weaken Chiang's hold on Formosa, has been developing to the point where even some of those who advocate a withdrawal from the Quemoys and Matsus by the Nationalists concede that this would irreparably damage the morale of the Chiang forces on Formosa.

But what alternative is offered? Usually it is suggested that American soldiers be stationed on Formosa to bolster the morale of Chiang's troops. That's involvement on a major scale, and the American people wouldn't like that, so the suggestion is really a specious one and hardly would be acceptable to the Eisenhower administration.

The future of freedom in Asia and, in fact, the prestige of the United States and the western powers are at stake today in the issue of the Quemoy and Matsu islands. They have a moral importance perhaps greater than their strategic value. For what they have come to mean today is a policy of retreat or of firmness. It is conceded now that the military operations in Korea, with more than 140,000 American casualties, didn't convince the Asian people at all that the west was victorious but merely that the United Nations retreated across the 38th Parallel and wouldn't fight for the rest of Korea even after her forces had been there. The simple military facts describe this as a defeat in Asian eyes.

NOW, WITH the United States represented as wavering and with a resolution introduced by some Democratic senators urging the United States to announce a refusal to defend the Quemoy and Matsu islands, the Communists may be encouraged to believe that maybe in due time this minority view will become the majority view of the Congress.

President Eisenhower, however, has a realistic understanding of what is implied by the subtle campaign being waged to break down the morale of Nationalist troops on Formosa. Mr. Eisenhower recently told his press conference:

"A terrific burden would depend upon the forces and the people occupying Formosa as to the possibility of its defense.

"You have to have forces there who are of high morale, who have something in which to believe if they are going to fight well, as that is the only way men fight. They don't fight just to get out and shoot at each other, so they must believe in something. And we must be careful not to destroy their morale. And that is a factor that you must always calculate when you talk about surrendering this place or that place or doing anything else."

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

I have been trying to understand the popular attitude in our confused and bothered country toward "celebrities" who continue to thrive notwithstanding disclosures about them and confessions by them. By standards which public opinion enforced a few years ago, these persons would have been widely ostracized.

Grover Bergdoll, the "slacker," was held in loathing by most Americans of even perfunctory patriotism. He had refused to serve in the First World War. He was the descendant of a long line of Germans who were, for all we could say to the contrary, as good as typical Americans. He refused to fight against his own blood. He rejected propaganda depicting France as an attractive, feminine nation, foully set upon by a shaggy brute. This was a version which many Americans have since revised. Bergdoll had great courage and determination. But we damned him utterly because he did not believe as we did and refused to go to a war to preserve the British empire against the challenge of Wilhelm, who was planting his flag on much unclaimed real estate. Like George V, across the North Sea, he had proclaimed himself "emperor", with as little justification.

Whatever the merits of Bergdoll's case, he is historic as a slacker.

I am perplexed by other particular cases which were disclosed after our Second World War. One was a Hollywood actor. By the acknowledged theatrical standards he is a genius. Since VJ-Day he has, oddly, enjoyed the favor of the present British empress and other members of the royal circle. This man's conduct was flagrant. When he was called up he gave an impression of great nervousness. After some time, thanks to the intervention of influential persons who had a financial stake in his career, he was excused and his file was withdrawn or destroyed. General Hershey, the director of the draft, said this fellow appeared so much afraid that it was deemed wise to be rid of him lest he cause panic among others in battle. That was his bureau's policy and would continue to be unless large numbers of draftees should pretend to be afraid, even though they were not, in order to escape danger. This man was so timorous that even the USO was forbidden to send him anywhere overseas as an entertainer.

Yet, he has gone on and on to wealth and acclaim. At gala premieres on Broadway, prominent Americans elbow and scuffle to be photographed with him.

There is another type of case. Soon after Pearl Harbor he, this one proudly flaunted in theatrical hangouts a 1-A card and said he would be glad to fight against Nazi-Fascism. But a year or so later the news was published that he was eating his heart out because a doctor had disqualified him. He never went overseas even to entertain. He was a quarrelsome individual and sometimes he overbid his hand. In Chicago, a young roughneck reporter from back of the yards, lately home from war in the Pacific, offended this temperamental star, who threatened to bat his ears off. The young roughneck said, "Where? When?" and tried to pull him out of a transport plane. Later it developed that the great artist had given a large donation to a democratic campaign fund. He is to this day a great celebrity notwithstanding a scandalous life.

Ed Sullivan, who never tires of telling of a close call he had in the first World War, when he almost enlisted in the Marines, has a remarkably soft spot for this type of underprivileged person. He tried to rescue Paul Draper from boycott and oblivion after Draper and Larry Adler had put to legal persecution a young matron of Greenwich, Conn., who had, so they said, accused them of being pro-Communist. They immediately slapped an attachment on her home and small bank account. Her distress was indeed pathetic. But Sullivan took it upon himself to try to rehabilitate Draper by using him on a radio program. The effort did not succeed. Incidentally, Draper and Adler were content with a hung jury and withdrew their suit.

Another time, Sullivan said Frank Sinatra was "for" the underprivileged and implied that whoever refused to admire him was hostile to children of "minorities."

This indorsement was expressed in the face of Sinatra's connection with a debauch in Havana with Lucky Luciano and other FBI characters all involved in narcotics, prostitution or "syndicate" gambling. It was long after he had backed with money an underworld blackmailer who started a filthy weekly in Hollywood and finally went to prison for a long term.

Again, Sullivan passionately defended Josephine Baker, an elderly kooch dancer who had kicked up disorder in the Stork Club by prearranged design. This woman is now barred from the United States for many utterances hostile to the country and our people. Sullivan saluted her as a great artist and brave fighter for American principles.

Only a few days ago, he wrote a sentimental but erroneous column about a movie director who was a Communist but quit. Sullivan said this brave decision had proved that Hollywood was cordial to enemies of communism. His facts were faulty, for this hero of his had run with the party for years when that was the stylish and profitable course. He did quit but he was loath to name his comrades at first. And when he did, the names were old stuff, already notorious. So he did nothing to earn Sullivan's applause. And communism is still stylish in Hollywood under false names.

As far as I know, Sullivan has not yet knighted James Roosevelt but he may get around to it. The bald eaglet of the dynasty is an excellent example of the public apathy toward violations of old standards. His letter blackening the reputations of a dozen married women needs no retelling now. It elected him to Congress. Of itself, the letter is only incidental to the fact that nowadays nothing nauseating makes Americans sick.

Scout Troop 12 25th Anniversary

Former members of Boy Scout Troop 12, sponsored by the Old Dutch Church, are planning a reunion in observance of the troop's 25th anniversary this weekend.

Scheduled events include the official charter presentation and award night for present troop members on Friday evening, and a banquet with program planned by a committee of former members on Saturday evening.

AMONG PERSONS to be honored will be Floyd L. Spencer, who was scoutmaster of the troop for 16 years. The troop's present scoutmaster is Ralph Shapiro.

Troop 12, following its organization in 1930, met in Bethany Mission on Washington avenue at the foot of North Front street, until that building was purchased for use as a wood products manufacturing plant. The troop presently meets at the Old Dutch Church.

Edwin M. Ford is chairman of the alumni committee planning the anniversary reunion. Reservations have been received from former members located in many parts of the country.

N. Y. City Reports $9,418,580 Saved

New York, April 12 (AP)—Estimated savings instituted by the city board of management improvement during 1954 totaled $9,418,580 with additional potential savings of $10,170,600, the board reported to Mayor Robert F. Wagner today.

Increased revenues obtained after management studies amouted to $500,000, it was said in the 133-page annual report.

The board comprises Luther Gulich, city administrator; Abraham D. Beame, budget director and Corporation Counsel Peter Campbell Brown. The report stated:

"The improved management by your departments and agencies has resulted in better service to the public, in reduction in costs of operations, and has served to offset higher costs and the necessity of increased staff in many areas of government.

"Out standing examples of this are found in inspection services, and in the police, hospital and sanitation departments."

Bennington Loading For Shakedown Sail

New York, April 12 (AP)—The aircraft carrier Bennington, repaired and modernized since the disastrous explosions aboard last year, is loading ammunition in Gravesend Bay, Brooklyn for a shakedown cruise.

The 27,100-ton vessel, steamed to Brooklyn yesterday for the Naval Supply Depot at Bayonne, N. J., across the harbor. The Bennington will sail for her home port, Quonset Point, R. I., Monday.

A naval spokesman said most of the multi-million-dollar work done on the Bennington at Bayonne was modernization rather than repair. An angled deck and a starboard deck-edge elevator were installed to facilitate handling of planes. An enclosed bow was added to increase the seaworthiness in rough weather.

Explosions rocked the Bennington last May 26 east of Newport, R. I., resulting in the death of 103 men and injuries to 201.

Wilkins to Press Fight for Negroes

New York, April 12 (AP)—Roy Wilkins, newly-elected executive secretary of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People, says there will be no letup in the NAACP's drive for "making the Negro a first-class citizen."

Wilkins, a 53-year-old Negro, was elected yesterday by the NAACP directors to succeed the late Walter White.

NAACP President Arthur Bam Spingarn said 31 members of the group's 48-member board voted unanimously to elevate Wilkin from his post as administrator of the association. For 24 years Wilkin had been right-hand man to White.

WHITE, who had a small fraction of Negro blood, died of a heart ailment March 21 at the age of 61.

The slender, six-foot, Wilkin told a news conference after his election that "we're definitely on the move."

"The Supreme Court decision on segregation is only one—but a big—indication on the status of the Negro American life," he said.

9267th Squadron Will Meet Tonight

The 9267 Air Reserve Squadron will hold its regular training today at 8 p. m., 22 Ferry street. At the meeting held April 5, Major Max H. Mayer, of the Air Reserve Center, with headquarters, in New York city was present and gave those present an informative talk, both on the present and future reserve plans as well as outlining the advantages incurring to a participating reservist.

Major Mayer said that a specialized course in communications may be started in the near future for both officer's and airmen qualified in this area. All prior members of the air force who have had experience in this field are urged to attend tonight's meeting.

Specialized training courses are being made available to both officers and airmen in various field and any reservist who is interested should attend one of Tuesday meetings for further information. These courses will be on pay status.

The Department of the Air Force today released the new figures on the recently passed new pay bill which is available at Squadron headquarters, for interested prior air force members.

RALPH J. WILLIAMS, JR., fire control technician third class, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph J. Williams of 95 Hasbrouck avenue, is serving aboard the radar picket destroyer USS Leary in the Mediterranean.

PVT. RONALD J. SAFANDA, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jeremiah F. Safanda of Berme road, Ellenville, boarded ship the last week in March for transfer to the 3rd Marine Division in Japan after completing four weeks of training in the staging regiment at this Marine Corps base.

PFC. DONALD BROOKS, 24, son of Henry W. Brooks, Ellenville, recently spent a week's leave in Tokyo from his unit in Korea. Pfc. Brooks, an education specialist in Headquarters Company of the 51st Signal Battalion, entered the army in October 1953 and completed basic training at Fort Dix, N. J. He is a 1953 graduate of the New York State College for Teachers.

PVT. JAMES D. GARRISON, 19, son of Noble F. Garrison, West Hurley, recently participated in a field training exercise in Germany with the 1st Infantry Division's 26th Regiment. Pvt. Garrison, a former student at Kingston High School, is a field wireman in Headquarters Company of the regiment's 1st Battalion. He entered the Army in May 1954 and received basic training at Fort Dix, N. J., before arriving overseas last October.

CorrespondentMoore's Body Is Identified

Tokyo, April 12 (AP) — The army today identified the body of AP correspondent William R. Moore nearly five years after he was killed in desperate American fighting to check a Korean Communist drive on Pusan.

Moore died July 31, 1950, at the age of 40. He had dropped his pencil and notes to help care for the wounded of an American tank platoon, overwhelmed by Red forces near Chinju, about 50 miles west of Pusan.

The army's graves registration laboratory at Okokura, Japan, made the identification, which was confirmed officially in Washington.

Moore was born in Nowata, Okla. He worked on the Daily Oklahoman in Oklahoma City before joining the AP at Denver in 1937. He served in the army from 1942 to 1946.

Schirmer Eliminated As Bank Job Suspect

New York, April 12 (AP)—Police have scratched Edward Schirmer off the list of persons they want to question about a $305,000 bank robbery in Queens last Wednesday.

Police had reported they were seeking the ex-convict in connection with the holdup at the Woodside branch of the Chase Manhattan Bank, the biggest bank cash take on record.

With some embarrassment yesterday they disclosed Schirmer was in Sing Sing Prison, having been returned there for parole violation about a year ago.

Pravda Makes Charge

Moscow, April 12 (AP)—The Soviet Union's state prosecutor is failing in his duty, especially in cases of embezzlement of state property, the newspaper Pravda charged today. An article covering almost half a page in the Communist party organ declared: "Guarding state property is one of the most important tasks of the prosecutor general but until now neither the prosecution nor the militia (police) have been able to ban all cases of violation of Socialist property." It said flatly that "the state prosecutor of the USSR and his staff are not doing their work well enough."

Churchills to Sicily

London, April 12 (AP)—Sir Winston Churchill and his wife left by plane today for a two-week holiday in Sicily. The stay on the sunny Italian Island will be the 80-year-old Churchill's first vacation in more than 18 months. He and his wife will stay at the Villa Politi, a resort hotel near Siracusa.

Village Officers For Rosendale

Rosendale, April 12 — Village officers were appointed at the April meeting of the Board of Trustees of the Village of Rosendale. Those appointed include: Charles Gaffney, village attorney; Shirley C. Williams, village clerk; Bernard Metzger, treasurer-collector; Harry Bunnell, water commissioner; J. W. Vaughn, auxiliary police justice; George Bockelman, police officer; Anderson Ellsworth, auxiliary police officer; Mr. Slater, multiple dwelling law inspector; Dominick Alfano, sanitation; Edward Demarest, Dr. E. Galvin, James Fahey, Edward Huben and Andrew J. Snyder, water board, and George Herd, acting mayor during the absence of Mayor John J. Mooney.

Permission was granted to the Viking TV Cable Lines to hang a co-axial cable from the mountain to the village. This permission was granted previously, but an insurance policy to protect the village against damage claims had to be submitted.

It was decided to extend electric lighting along the Creek Locks road to the end of the village line. This lighting will increase the village electric bill by nearly $165 per year.

Notice has been given that bids will soon be accepted for the purchase of the lot on Snyder avenue adjacent to the school, and the house on the Gorsline property, Main street, to be removed. Preference of the board will be to dispose of both properties simultaneously.

Next week a meeting will be called for the fire building committee to examine proposed plans.

Woman's Club Food Sale

A food sale will be sponsored by the Woman's Club of Rosendale Saturday, April 23, at the Towne Shoppe, Main street. Proceeds will be for the benefit of the club treasury. The regular monthly meeting of the club has been scheduled for Thursday evening, April 14, at the home of Mrs. Joseph Stein, Stone Ridge. A film, The Valiant Heart, will be shown.

11 of Gang Picked Up

New York, April 12 (AP) — Bronx police seized 11 members of a Harlem youth gang called "The Saracens" last night after the youths were reported searching for a Bronx group of the same name. The gang's 15-year-old leader told detectives that his gang had gone to the Bronx to ask the other group of "Saracens" to change their name. The Harlem group was picked up after police received a flood of telephone calls to the effect that a gang fight was brewing on 169th street between Undercliff and Sedgwick avenues.

Car Derailed

New York, April 12 (AP)—The first car of an IRT elevated train was partially derailed early today a few feet north of the Dyckman street station in Inwood. Police said there were 15 passengers and two crewmen aboard the train and that none had been injured.

Highpockets Held For Grand Jury In Hatchet Case

William Henderson, 60, of 20 Ann street, the alleged "Highpockets," charged with assaulting Aaron Hughes, 32, of Box 212, East Kingston, with a hatchet yesterday morning, was arrested in the afternoon by Lt. Robert F. Murphy and Detective Clarence Brophy.

Booked on a second degree assault charge, he waived examination today before City Judge Raymond J. Mino and was held for the grand jury.

Hughes, who went to Kingston Hospital in a taxi, told police he had been struck "two or three times" on the side of the head with a hatchet. His condition at the hospital was reported as not serious.

Henderson was arrested at the Ann street address after Hughes told police that his assailant was known as Highpockets. Henderson told police that he and others had been drinking at the house, and he claimed that Hughes broke a table and generally created a disturbance. He indicated he was using the hatchet to fix the table and lost his temper when Hughes continued irking him.

Police said Henderson was in bed when they went to the house to arrest him.

Attorney Louis DiDonna appeared for the district attorney's office.

Stevenson Hitting

"pursuing a dead-end policy in Asia" dictated by political expediency at home.

He said America's allies fear we will go to war against Red China to defend Quemoy and Matsu, which lie within artillery range of the China mainland.

"The division of our coalition over these offshore islands—the weakening of the grand alliance of free nations pledged to stand together to defend themselves—is in my judgment a greater peril to enduring peace than the islands themselves."

Stevenson said the United States does not have as much legal justification to go to the defense of the offshore islands as it would to defend Formosa.

Stevenson said the United States talked big about preventing the Communists from taking northern Vietnam, but did nothing.

"WE NOW face the bitter consequences of our government's Formosa policy once again—either another damaging and humiliating retreat, or else the hazard of war, modern war, unleashed not by necessity, not by strategic judgment, but by a policy based more on our political difficulties here at home than the realities of our situation in Asia," he said.

"If we should withdraw under fire from the defense of these islands we again act the 'paper tiger;' if we join in their defense we are at war, perhaps world war, without major allies and with most of public opinion in Asia and Europe against us."

"GIVEN THESE unhappy choices," Stevenson said, "it appears that President Eisenhower will decide what to do if and when the attack comes, depending on whether in his judgment it is just an attack on these islands (Quemoy and Matsu) or a prelude to an assault of Formosa.

"While our President has great military experience, perhaps it is not improper to ask whether any man can read the mind of an enemy within a few hours of such an attack and determine whether, at some later date, the enemy plans to go further and invade Formosa.

"Is it wise to allow the dread question of modern war to hinge upon such a guess?"

HE SAID there may be no wholly satisfactory way of resolving the problem "at this late date" but suggested:

"So I would urge our government to promptly consult our friends, yes, and the uncommitted states too, and ask them all to join with us in an open declaration condemning the use of force in the Formosa strait, and agreeing to stand with us in the defense of its status—by independence, naturalization, trusteeship, plebiscite, or whatever is wisest.

"Nor do I see any reason why we should not invite Russia, which is united by treaty with Red China, to declare its position, to indicate whether it prefers the possibility of ultimate settlement by agreement to an unpredictable, perhaps limitless conflict * * *."

Plan Point . . .

Ponckhockie section, Rapid Hose Company, Rescue Hook & Ladder, and Cornell Hose Company protect the downtown and residential sections. Twaalfskill Hose Company is located in the Wilbur area, Weiner Hose Company covers the central section, Wicks Engine & Truck Company serves the residential and industrial areas of the second and third wards, and Excelsior and Wiltwyck Hose Companies guard the uptown area of Kingston. Six of these companies maintain their own engine houses and operate their own apparatus. The others share quarters and apparatus with the paid department."

ALL COMPANIES are active and hold regular meetings, the statement noted, and they realize that fire-fighting is their principal function. "Besides being called upon to answer calls in a particular section, the volunteer company is often required to 'stand by' and cover while the paid department or other volunteer companies are answering calls."

"While it is true that our excellent paid fire department is now the first line of fire protection," the committee noted, "the volunteer is called upon to help at all serious fires where the limited manpower of the paid department is overtaxed. The cost of maintaining the present volunteer stations with paid personnel would be an impossible burden upon the taxpayer."

"Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy," it noted, "attributes much of the credit for our exceptionally low fire loss to the faithful service performed by the volunteer firemen."

"IN THE MATTER of civilian defense," it said, "the volunteer fire service supplies the auxiliary firemen, which are so necessary in times of great emergency or disaster. At a trial test held some time ago over 300 firemen responded to the various stations. One of the local companies participated in an area exercise held in Schenectady.

"Mayor Frederick H. Stang said the various companies are always willing and cooperative in all community undertakings."

The statement also noted that many volunteer firemen attend the yearly fire schools held each summer under direction of the officers of the paid department.

Reilly Fined $10 For Intoxication, Saved From Fire

Joseph Reilly, 48, of Esopus, who was hauled from a car which had caught fire at Hasbrouck avenue and East Strand yesterday and arrested by Officer John Crespino, pleaded guilty before City Judge Raymond J. Mino today to a public intoxication charge and was fined $10.

Officer Crespino injured a finger in pulling Reilly from the car and was treated at Kingston Hospital, a police report said. The fire was confined to the car motor. Fireman were called at 10:21 a. m.

Attorney Louis DiDonna represented the district attorney's office in city court today.

Review Is Refused

Washington, April 11 (AP)—The Supreme Court today refused to review an NLRB ruling that an employer must furnish wage information demanded by a union, including names of workers and the pay they get. This means that the ruling remains in effect as a prededent in other cases before the National Labor Relations Board.

Wilson to Defend Rules

Washington, April 12 (AP)—Secretary of Defense Wilson was described as ready to defend his new Pentagon information rules today as permiting a continued normal flow of military news. Aides said they also expected their chief to tell a news conference later today that his March 29 orders stemmed from weeks of study and were not hasty decisions resulting from the release of any single piece of information. Wilson has not been available for questioning by newsmen since issuance of the orders two weeks ago. He was laid up most of last week by a heavy cold.

Dealers and Cars They Are Featuring This Week

Here are some of the dealers and the cars for which they are agents, taking part in this week's "Spotlight on Automobiles," featuring the latest designs and newest mechanical equipment. Last night the dealers took part in a long motorcade from Port Ewen to Kingston, traveling over the streets of the various business areas guided by police escort. Upper left is Bev Anderson with one of his Chevrolet models; upper right, Edwin T. Kolb and John Bennett, DeSoto agents; lower left, Bob Nadler, Chrysler representative and lower right, Edward Franz, Nash dealer. (Freeman photos).

Her Last Bunny

East Meadow, April 12 (AP)—It was Mary's first—and last—glimpse of an Easter bunny. The 2-year-old tot arrived in America five days ago with her Polish refugee parents. They told her to stay in the backyard to play. For four days she did. But yesterday she heard children laughing and yelling. Mary Pyszczymucha glimpsed a huge toy bunny that was the center of excitement. Entranced, she ran to see. It wasn't until people screamed a minute later that a sanitation truck driver learned that tiny Mary had dashed in front of his vehicle and lay crushed to death beneath the wheels.

First Stamps

First adhesive postage stamps, bearing portraits of George Washington and Benjamin Franklin, were on sale in the United States on July 1, 1847.

Hearing Begins On Train Wreck

Albany, N. Y., April 11 (AP)—The New York Central Railroad began closed hearings today on the wreck of a fast passenger train at Schodack Landing April 2.

The engineer, William T. Kelly, of Tarrytown, was injured fatally and 34 others were hurt seriously when the combined Pacemaker and advance Commodore piled up on a rockslide across the tracks 15 miles south of Albany.

NEWSMEN WERE not allowed into the hearing room but the Knickerbocker News said it had learned that railroad employes testified that no unsafe conditions were found along the embankment the day before the wreck.

The paper also reported that the testimony of the 10 witnesses did not indicate that there had been any defects in the train itself. There was no testimony as to the exact time of the rock slide.

Leroy H. Stecker, superintendent of the Mohawk and Hudson Division of the railroad presided.

100 Cars . . .

rolet, Old Capital Motors, Kingston Buick, Denton Cadillac-Oldsmobile, Lischke Pontiac, Martin - Moran, Hayes - Jarrett, Bob Nadler, Albany Avenue Garage, City Garage, Wiltwyck Motors, Harold Halwick and Port Ewen Garage.

Most of the units in the parade were worth at least $2,000, and some of the trucks were valued between $10,000 and $15,000. There were also expensive sport models as well as many automobiles equipped with all "extras."

The parade itself, considering it was the association's first attempt, was engineered without any undue difficulty.

George Shivery, president of the association, and Gerald Martin, chairman of the "Spotlight on Automobiles" committee, agreed this morning that the results were gratifying and the enthusiasm of the dealers indicated the observance may be repeated annually.

Health Education Programs Slated

It was announced today that the Ulster County TB and Health Association will sponsor their health education programs this week.

Today the Mental Health Committee will sponsor the film "He Acts His Age," at a meeting of the Ladies' Fire Auxiliary of Stone Ridge. This film gives an over all picture of social and mental development in childhood.

Wednesday the Mental Health Committee will sponsor the film "Your Children and You," at a meeting of the Stone Ridge Child Study Club. This is an excellent film dealing with children from early months through to school age. It covers a variety of subjects: weaning, behavior, discipline, toys, early questions about sex, fear, and other major problems.

Thursday the Heart Committee will sponsor the film "Valiant Heart," at a meeting of the Rosendale and Stone Ridge Womens Club. "Valiant Heart," an excellent film on rheumatic fever has recently been purchased by the Ulster County TB and Health Association and added to its film library.

These, other films, and health programs can be arranged at the Christmas Seal and Heart Fund office at 74 John street or by calling 1164.

Highpockets Held For Grand Jury In Hatchet Case

William Henderson, 60, of 20 Ann street, the alleged "Highpockets," charged with assaulting Aaron Hughes, 32, of Box 212, East Kingston, with a hatchet yesterday morning, was arrested in the afternoon by Lt. Robert F. Murphy and Detective Clarence Brophy.

Booked on a second degree assault charge, he waived examination today before City Judge Raymond J. Mino and was held for the grand jury.

Hughes, who went to Kingston Hospital in a taxi, told police he had been struck "two or three times" on the side of the head with a hatchet. His condition at the hospital was reported as not serious.

Henderson was arrested at the Ann street address after Hughes told police that his assailant was known as Highpockets. Henderson told police that he and others had been drinking at the house, and he claimed that Hughes broke a table and generally created a disturbance. He indicated he was using the hatchet to fix the table and lost his temper when Hughes continued irking him.

Police said Henderson was in bed when they went to the house to arrest him.

Attorney Louis DiDonna appeared for the district attorney's office.

Stevenson Hitting

"pursuing a dead-end policy in Asia" dictated by political expediency at home.

He said America's allies fear we will go to war against Red China to defend Quemoy and Matsu, which lie within artillery range of the China mainland.

"The division of our coalition over these offshore islands—the weakening of the grand alliance of free nations pledged to stand together to defend themselves—is in my judgment a greater peril to enduring peace than the islands themselves."

Stevenson said the United States does not have as much legal justification to go to the defense of the offshore islands as it would to defend Formosa.

Stevenson said the United States talked big about preventing the Communists from taking northern Vietnam, but did nothing.

"WE NOW face the bitter consequences of our government's Formosa policy once again—either another damaging and humiliating retreat, or else the hazard of war, modern war, unleashed not by necessity, not by strategic judgment, but by a policy based more on our political difficulties here at home than the realities of our situation in Asia," he said.

"If we should withdraw under fire from the defense of these islands we again act the 'paper tiger;' if we join in their defense we are at war, perhaps world war, without major allies and with most of public opinion in Asia and Europe against us."

"GIVEN THESE unhappy choices," Stevenson said, "it appears that President Eisenhower will decide what to do if and when the attack comes, depending on whether in his judgment it is just an attack on these islands (Quemoy and Matsu) or a prelude to an assault of Formosa.

"While our President has great military experience, perhaps it is not improper to ask whether any man can read the mind of an enemy within a few hours of such an attack and determine whether, at some later date, the enemy plans to go further and invade Formosa.

"Is it wise to allow the dread question of modern war to hinge upon such a guess?"

HE SAID there may be no wholly satisfactory way of resolving the problem "at this late date" but suggested:

"So I would urge our government to promptly consult our friends, yes, and the uncommitted states too, and ask them all to join with us in an open declaration condemning the use of force in the Formosa strait, and agreeing to stand with us in the defense of its status—by independence, naturalization, trusteeship, plebiscite, or whatever is wisest.

"Nor do I see any reason why we should not invite Russia, which is united by treaty with Red China, to declare its position, to indicate whether it prefers the possibility of ultimate settlement by agreement to an unpredictable, perhaps limitless conflict * * *."

Plan Point . . .

Ponckhockie section, Rapid Hose Company, Rescue Hook & Ladder, and Cornell Hose Company protect the downtown and residential sections. Twaalfskill Hose Company is located in the Wilbur area, Weiner Hose Company covers the central section, Wicks Engine & Truck Company serves the residential and industrial areas of the second and third wards, and Excelsior and Wiltwyck Hose Companies guard the uptown area of Kingston. Six of these companies maintain their own engine houses and operate their own apparatus. The others share quarters and apparatus with the paid department."

ALL COMPANIES are active and hold regular meetings, the statement noted, and they realize that fire-fighting is their principal function. "Besides being called upon to answer calls in a particular section, the volunteer company is often required to 'stand by' and cover while the paid department or other volunteer companies are answering calls."

"While it is true that our excellent paid fire department is now the first line of fire protection," the committee noted, "the volunteer is called upon to help at all serious fires where the limited manpower of the paid department is overtaxed. The cost of maintaining the present volunteer stations with paid personnel would be an impossible burden upon the taxpayer."

"Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy," it noted, "attributes much of the credit for our exceptionally low fire loss to the faithful service performed by the volunteer firemen."

"IN THE MATTER of civilian defense," it said, "the volunteer fire service supplies the auxiliary firemen, which are so necessary in times of great emergency or disaster. At a trial test held some time ago over 300 firemen responded to the various stations. One of the local companies participated in an area exercise held in Schenectady.

"Mayor Frederick H. Stang said the various companies are always willing and cooperative in all community undertakings."

The statement also noted that many volunteer firemen attend the yearly fire schools held each summer under direction of the paid department.

Reilly Fined $10 For Intoxication, Saved From Fire

Joseph Reilly, 48, of Esopus, who was hauled from a car which had caught fire at Hasbrouck avenue and East Strand yesterday and arrested by Officer John Crespino, pleaded guilty before City Judge Raymond J. Mino today to a public intoxication charge and was fined $10.

Officer Crespino injured a finger in pulling Reilly from the car and was treated at Kingston Hospital, a police report said. The fire was confined to the car motor. Fireman were called at 10:21 a. m.

Attorney Louis DiDonna represented the district attorney's office in city court today.

Review Is Refused

Washington, April 11 (AP)—The Supreme Court today refused to review an NLRB ruling that an employer must furnish wage information demanded by a union, including names of workers and the pay they get. This means that the ruling remains in effect as a predecent in other cases before the National Labor Relations Board.

Wilson to Defend Rules

Washington, April 12 (AP)—Secretary of Defense Wilson was described as ready to defend his new Pentagon information rules today as permiting a continued normal flow of military news. Aides said they also expected their chief to tell a news conference later today that his March 29 orders stemmed from weeks of study and were not hasty decisions resulting from the release of any single piece of information. Wilson has not been available for questioning by newsmen since issuance of the orders two weeks ago. He was laid up most of last week by a heavy cold.

WOODSTOCK NEWS

By RICHARD E. THIBAUT, Jr.

Benefit Concert For Maverick

Woodstock, April 12—Several seasons ago the winter months in Woodstock were brightened by a series of winter concerts and two musicians active in those events were Dr. Hans Cohn, cellist and Mrs. Alice Smiley, violinist of Mohonk. However another winter without music has passed. But the picture has changed and a concert, with a varied program is being planned for Sunday, April 24, to be presented at 4 p. m. at the studio of Alice Wardwell on Glasco Turnpike.

For the benefit of the Maverick Concert Fund, the price will be nominal. Visitors who are not familiar with the location of Miss Wardwell's studio will recognize the property by the number of cards parked there the afternoon of the concert.

The artists participating are: Pianists, Vivian Fine, Ilse Sass and Alexander Semmler; Alice Smiley, violinist; Ruth Cohn, mezzo soprano; and Dr. Hans Cohn, cellist.

Vivian Fine is a new-comer to Woodstock concert audiences, but is well-known in the area. She is the wife of Benjamin Karp who is a professor at New Paltz State Teachers College. She is a pianist and a composer and studied composition with Roger Session. She taught at New York University, Julliard and New York State University. She has appeared in many cities, and her compositions were played in the International Society for Contemporary Music in this country and in Europe.

Brush Fires Keep Fire Company Busy

Woodstock, April 12—A series of brush fires again kept the Woodstock Fire Company busy over the Easter weekend. The first occurred at the home of Sidney Berkowitz on Ohayo Mountain at 1 p. m., Saturday, and the second about 5 p. m., at the home of Loren Swayzie, the property owned by Karl Fortess on Plochmann Lane. On Sunday about 3 p. m. another fire was reported at the home of Mrs. Gertrude Hogany on Ohayo Mountain resulting from the use of a wide-meshed burning basket touching off the surrounding area. A large brush fire burned over about two acres at the Wildwood Farm in Lake Hill on Friday afternoon. All of the fires were extinguished without further damage by the responding volunteer firemen.

Eastern Star Will Present Minstrel Show

Woodstock, April 12 — Plans were completed for a minstrel show, which is to be given by Clinton Chapter of Eastern Star, Kingston, at the Town Hall, Woodstock, on Tuesday, April 26, at 8 p. m., during the regular meeting of Agapae Rebekah Lodge held last Wednesday evening at the Bearsville Lodge Hall.

Mrs. Evelyn Hoberg, district deputy president of Ulster District No. 1 will make her official visit at the next meeting on April 20. Members are asked to bring covered dishes for refreshments.

A rummage sale and food sale is being planned for Saturday, June 25.

Members are invited to attend the 31st anniversary of Tiskilwa Rebekah Lodge at Phoenicia on April 19 and also the official visit of M. Jerry Judin, grand master of the I.O.O.F. of the State of New York at Atharhacton Lodge, Kingston, on April 28.

The Past Noble Grands Association of the Rebekahs of Ulster District will meet at West Saugerties on April 23 for dinner at 6:30 p. m. with the meeting to follow.

Lydian Society Meeting

Woodstock, April 12 — The Lydian Society of the Woodstock Dutch Reformed Church will meet in the basement of the church on Wednesday, April 13, at 2 p. m. The flowers at the altar of the church on Easter morning were given in memorial to Mr. and Mrs. George W. Riseley, Walter Harand and Jo An Hoffman.

Children Enjoy Easter Egg Hunt

Woodstock, April 12—For the seventh Easter Sunday morning, the children of the township converged on the village green for the annual Easter Egg hunt planned and sponsored by Joseph Forno. This year, however, the young egg hunting tribe was transported by Fred Ohl's bus to the kindergarten play yard of the Woodstock school, a more open and spacious hunting ground for the young searchers. When the word go was given they swarmed up the slight incline to the little wooded area around the playground. It took less time than usual for the winners of the 12 lucky eggs to come in and be awarded handsome cameras with flash attachments.

The winners of Sunday's hunt were as follows: Ralph Wickman, Varick Graver, Melody Kypers, Patricia Mower, Gary Wolven, Wanda Reynolds, David D'Albis, Marcia Underhill, John Chalmers, Lynn Schwarz and Douglas Martin.

Village Notes

Woodstock, April 12 — Miss Ruth Cohn is spending the Easter holidays from Barnard College, at the home of her parents Dr. and Mrs. Hans J. Cohn.

Mr. and Mrs. James B. Pond are now en route home from Mexico via the long way through San Francisco, where they plan to visit Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Mabry who first introduced them to Bearsville eight years ago. They expect to reach Woodstock late in April.

California has added more than 2.3 million inhabitants to its population since 1950.

HIGHLAND NEWS

Highland, April 12—Plans for the meeting of District 26, Daughters of America, were completed at the meeting of Ida McKinley Council in Odd Fellows' Hall Wednesday night. Children Enjoy Easter Egg Hunt

Woodstock, April 12—For the seventh Easter Sunday morning, the children of the township converged on the village green for the annual Easter Egg hunt planned and sponsored by Joseph Forno. This year, however, the young egg hunting tribe was transported by Fred Ohl's bus to the kindergarten play yard of the Woodstock school, a more open and spacious hunting ground for the young searchers. When the word go was given they swarmed up the slight incline to the little wooded area around the playground. It took less time than usual for the winners of the 12 lucky eggs to come in and be awarded handsome cameras with flash attachments.

The winners of Sunday's hunt were as follows: Ralph Wickman, Varick Graver, Melody Kypers, Patricia Mower, Gary Wolven, Wanda Reynolds, David D'Albis, Marcia Underhill, John Chalmers, Lynn Schwarz and Douglas Martin.

Village Notes

Woodstock, April 12 — Miss Ruth Cohn is spending the Easter holidays from Barnard College, at the home of her parents Dr. and Mrs. Hans J. Cohn.

Mr. and Mrs. James B. Pond are now en route home from Mexico via the long way through San Francisco, where they plan to visit Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Mabry who first introduced them to Bearsville eight years ago. They expect to reach Woodstock late in April.

California has added more than 2.3 million inhabitants to its population since 1950.

CITY OF KINGSTON, N. Y., TUESDAY EVENING, APRIL 12, 1955.

Urge to Cool Off Is Aiding Comeback of Hot Air Furnace

New York, April 12 (AP)—The urge to cool off in hot weather is aiding the comeback of an institution of grandfather's day—the hot-air furnace.

The warm-air heating industry is teaming up with the air-conditioning industry. Add in some assists from the all-but-total electrification of American homes, the rapid increase in the use of fuel oil and natural gas in the heating units, and the nation's home building boom.

RESULT: A 45 per cent increase in gross sales of the warm-air heating industry in the last five years. The American Institute of Management estimates wholesale totals last year reached 183 million dollars on 773,500 units sold.

The present warm-air system isn't too much like the cast-iron furnace into which grandfather shovelled coal, to let the hot air rise through ducts to the upper floors.

Now it's streamlined, made of steel, is equipped with electric blowers and fans, regulated by thermostats, and maybe heated by oil and gas.

And of late, it is increasingly being combined with cooling equipment to serve as an all-year round conditioner of air and controller of temperature in the modern home.

The institute forecasts that the warm-air heaters—which fell out of favor for a time—will stage an even greater comeback in the next 10 years. It foresees a continuing sizable market for new homes, plus "an almost unlimited replacement market of poorly engineered, antiquated or badly installed furnace units."

COMPETITION IS growing in the heater field, however. Makers of boiler systems, which continue to dominate the industrial, commercial and multi-family dwelling market, are stepping up research efforts to develop central, all-weather equipment. Electric heating units and heat pumps are finding a market, especially where power rates are low. Air conditioning manufacturers are entering the heating field.

The National Warm-Air Heating and Air Conditioning Assn., with about 60 furnace makers as members and 3,000 wholesalers and dealers as associated, has spurred technical research to improve heating equipment.

Some 400 companies market warm-air heating equipment, but in its study of the industry the American Institute of Management notes that 25 of them make about 70 per cent of all furnaces sold. In the last 10 years the expanding market has attracted 147 newcomers.

The resulting competition, the institute notes, has meant "a general decline in net income as a per cent of sales and a static or declining net income in dollars."

The institute finds that "the most obvious area for intensified research and development today is that of the combined heating and cooling unit."

THE SURVEY adds: "Such units, already manufactured by about 25 companies, can be improved in both price and efficiency. Acknowledged engineering problems of capacity, noise, and air distribution must be met before mass home-owner acceptance can be achieved."

The marriage with air conditioning systems to get either warmth or coolness may help the warm-air heating industry to lick one of its big problems, the seasonal nature of its sales.

Furnace shipments hit a low in January, start to rise sharply in summer and top out in October. Teamed with cooling devices, the furnaces could find a new sales season in late winter and spring.

Snow Strands Travelers

Kimball, Neb. April 12 (AP)—Snow, wet and heavy and whipped by a wind estimated up to 45 miles an hour, continued to fall in this thirsty area today after coming up fast yesterday afternoon and filling this city to the brim with stranded travelers. Early morning reports were that some motorists were caught on the highways but were remaining with their cars and were not thought to be in any danger. Almost all of the southwest Nebraska Panhandle was getting snow or rain. The fall in the Kimball area was estimated at up to 12 inches Monday night.

SHELL GAME—English walnuts pour from a bag, compliments of the "Nuts to Neuberger" committee of Portland, Ore. The nuts were sent to Sen. Richard L. Neuberger (D., Ore.) in mild protest to his recent objection to "trapping" of squirrels on the White House grounds. Pouring is Ruth Switzer of McPherson, Kans., a secretary in the senator's office.

Tillson

Fire Company Election

Tillson, April 12—The annual election and installation of officers for the coming year will be held this evening at the regular monthly meeting of the Tillson Volunteer Fire Company, Inc., to be held at the Tillson firehall starting at 8 o'clock. All members are urged to attend this most important meeting.

Ladies' Aid Meeting

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Tillson Reformed Church will meet Friday evening at the church hall, at 8 o'clock. Mrs. Clifford Smith and Mrs. William Davis will be hostesses. This meeting was first scheduled for Thursday evening, but has been postponed until the following evening, April 15.

Commissioner's Meeting

The Board of Fire Commissioners of the Tillson Fire District will meet at the firehall Wednesday evening at 8 p. m.

Trap Shoot Sunday

A trap shoot will be held Sunday afternoon at the local grounds by the A. J. Snyder Lime plant, when the Poughkeepsie IBM team will meet the Rosendale Sportsmen's Association team. The shoot is scheduled to start at one o'clock. The public is invited to attend. James Guerreri of Tillson is the captain of the local team, and Art LaGrange is captain of the IBM team.

Easter Vacation

Easter vacation for pupils of the Tillson school started at noon-time last Thursday, April 7, and school will reopen Tuesday, April 19. Normally, school would reopen on Monday, April 18, but an Ulster County Teacher's Supervisory District Conference is being held that day at the Wallkill Central School for the purpose to redistrict the present four districts of the county into a possible county wide teacher's association.

Village Notes

A group of local people attended the showing of the slide film, "Valley of Opportunity," shown Thursday evening at the firehall, through the courtesy of the Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corporation. Due to many other activities scheduled for the same evening, attendance was not as high as anticipated.

A group of five young people were accepted into the Tillson Reformed Church at Holy Communion services held Thursday evening. A large crowd attended the special services. Admitted into the church were Mary Ann Woolsey, Margaret Sutherland, Patricia Hill, Kathryn Serenbetz and William Dunn.

A new meat department has recently been added to Bagley's market in Tillson offering a complete line of meats under Bob Meyer of Kingston. The store continues it grocery and fish market, also.

The "stove party," sponsored by the Women's Auxiliary of the Tillson Volunteer Fire Company will not take place this Thursday evening as orginally planned. No definite date has as yet been set for the activity.

A choir composed of members of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Tillson Reformed Church, sang at Easter morning exercises at the church.

The board of trustees of Common School District No. 2 of the Town of Rosendale have given notice that a special district meeting of the qualified voters of the school district will be held Thursday evening, April 14, at 8 o'clock at the Tillson school. The purpose of the meeting is to consider the purchase of additional grounds by the school. It is understood that the parcel of land in question will contain approximately 6.5 acres, more or less, for the sum of $10,000.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Young and daughters Linda and Barbara of Jamaica, Long Island, visited Mrs. Young's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Urbelis during the Easter holiday season.

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Keator were Easter Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Hollis E. Harvey.

Washington, April 12 (AP)—Moving to upset Communist propaganda, President Eisenhower has announced the United States is ready to give a bigger lift to Asian nations in their quest for economic development and a "rising standard of living."

The President said last night he will send Congress next week a foreign aid program "including economic aid to the free nations of South and East Asia."

THE ANNOUNCEMENT was made as delegates began gathering for an Afro-Asian Conference at Bandung, Indonesia, next week. Red China is one of the nations expected to play a leading role there—a role that might involve an attempt to woo nations friendly to the United States.

Eisenhower mentioned no dollar amounts in his announcement, but indications are the program will come to about 3½ billions. About two-thirds of this would be earmarked for Asia.

Eisenhower said this country is motivated by (1) "Our fixed belief in the worth of dignity of the human individual, whatever his race or flag" and (2) "our dedication to the principle that the fruits of national growth must be widely shared in every society."

Largest Hall

Chicago, April 12 (AP)—Plans for a gigantic lakefront exhibition hall in Chicago were presented to civic leaders last night. The proposed structure would cost $34,286,000, and the Chicago Park Fair Corp. Said it would be the largest exhibition hall in the world in area and seating capacity.

Presbyterian Group To Hear Missionary At Spring Meeting

The annual spring meeting of the North River Presbyterial Society will be held Thursday at the First Presbyterian Church of Beacon, beginning at 10 a. m. Luncheon will be served by the women of the Beacon church.

The guest speaker for the program will be Miss Mary Donaldson, a secretary of the Presbyterian Church for Church Extension and Mission. Her address will be an interpretation of her work in the National Mission fields of the church.

Miss Donaldson has been working in India since 1948 until her recent recall to the United States. She began her missionary career in China in 1924 where she was stationed at Tsinan in Shantung Province, North China.

After Pearl Harbor Miss Donaldson's work was interrupted and she returned to the United States where for four years she was engaged in study and promotional work for the Board of Foreign Missions of her denomination. In 1946 she returned to Tsinan for two years of service before the Communist advance made it necessary for her to leave.

In 1948 Miss Donaldson was transferred to Dehra Dun, India, to serve as supervisor of the Teacher Training Department of the Presbyterian Girls' School there, the oldest school for girls in North India. For the past two years this missionary worker has served on the faculty of the North Indian United Theological Seminary in Shaharanpur.

Miss Donaldson is a native of Pennsylvania and is a graduate of Mount Holyoke College; she holds a master's degree from Hartford Theological Seminary of Yale University, and has also studied at Biblical Seminary in New York and at Oberlin College in Oberlin, O.

"Quality Is Remembered Long After Price Is Forgotten"

Civil Air Patrol Will Play Important Role In Atomic Tests This Month Says Lt. Lane

Civil Air Patrol personnel and planes will play an important part in the Civil Defense program tests this month, it has been announced by Lt. Sidney Lane, Commander of the Kingston Squadron. According to information received from Major Gen. Lucas V. Beau, National Commander of the Civil Air Patrol, civilian auxiliary of the Air Force, America's thousands of private pilots and light plane owners will have a critical public service to play in the event of any atomic attack upon the United States.

"THERE ARE TWO major problems with which we must deal if any American city is struck by an atomic bomb," he declared in discussing the Civil Air Patrol's role in the atomic test project of the Federal Civil Defense Administration scheduled for the Nevada Test Site of the Atomic Energy Commission in mid-April.

"If we are attacked," continued General Beau, "we must reckon first with the problem of mass evacuation. Secondly, we must be prepared to bring help to those who are caught within the area of the blast. In either case private pilots with their single-engine lightplanes based at hundreds of small airports across the nation will be called upon to perform a variety of missions for which their planes and training are especially adapted.

"IN THE CASE of mass evacuation, traffic congestion certainly will throw up roadblocks in the way of the hurrying populace. This is where the small, radio-equipped private plane with its ability to fly low and slow will be pressed into service providing aerial eyes for police agencies charged with the responsibility of keeping the flow of human traffic moving. In many cities the planes and volunteer crewmen of the Civil Air Patrol already have begun training for this critical role. City officials and Civil Defense authorities have been enthusiastic in their praise of the assistance rendered by light aviation.

LT. LANE, who has a private pilot's license, has announced that cadets will be studying flight theory and navigation under the current Civil Air Patrol program here in Kingston. He plans a trip to Steward Field in the near future to acquaint cadets with aviation from a first-hand inspection.

Anyone who is interested in this program is invited to the meeting of Kingston Squadron, Civil Air Patrol, Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. at MJM School. Lt. Lane is anxious to build up the strength of the squadron and "make it one of the finest in the Hudson valley."

The importance of civilian pilots is emphasized by Gen. Beau who continued in his report:

"After an enemy nuclear bomb has devastated an American city the light-plane and its volunteer pilot have an even more important role—that of bringing in doctors and nurses, blood, medical supplies and uncontaminated food and water. When surface transportation is hindered by wrecked bridges, toppled buildings and abandoned vehicles, the lightplane can land in vacant lots, athletic fields, stadiums, golf courses, parks and cleared roadways."

IN LAST SUMMER'S nationwide Civil Defense program—"Operation Alert"—Civil Air Patrol planes operating into a 900 foot football field in downtown Washington, D. C., airlifted 1,700 pints of whole blood to within 100 yards of the Civil Defense command post in the nation's capital. In still another training mission, CAP pilots airlifted an entire field hospital complete with 16 beds, two doctors, four nurses, first aid attendants, its own electric power plant, portable operating table and equipment into Philadelphia after an "atomic bomb" exploded in the Navy Yard. Contemporary private planes ranging from Cubs to four-place Navions were used exclusively.

"IN THE APRIL atomic test dubbed 'Operation Cue' still another role of the lightplane will be demonstrated," General Beau revealed.

"For the first time," he said, "a CAP lightplane—flown by a Civil Air Patrol pilot—will go in at low altitude over a blast site to measure the level of nuclear radiation after the explosion. A trained Civil Defense monitor flying as a passenger and using special equipment will take the readings."

General Beau also revealed that the Civil Air Patrol has more than 5,300 planes available from coast to coast to support local Civil Defense organizations as well as to perform certain non-combatant missions in support of the air force.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick I. Schumann of 150 O'Neil street. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Mehm of 60 West Chestnut street.

Martin W. Kelly sang Ave Maria and Mother Beloved accompanied on the organ by Mrs. Frank Rafferty.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of Chantilly lace and nylon tulle over taffeta styled with a fitted lace bodice, long tapered sleeves and a scalloped Vee neckline outlined in iridescent sequins. The bouffant tulle skirt terminated in a full train. The fingertip veil of white silk illusion was attached to a Chantilly lace cap ornamented with seed pearls and iridescent sequins. The bride carried a cascade of fleur d'amour and lilies of the valley.

Miss Carol Mehm, sister of the bridegroom, was maid of honor. She wore a gown of aqua nylon net fashioned with a molded and draped bodice of crystalette and a bouffant floor length skirt with back pannier of crystalette. A draped stole and a pillbox hat trimmed with matching flowers completed her ensemble. She carried a cascade of yellow roses and sweet peas.

The bridesmaids were Miss Lorraine Del Duca and Miss Barbara Meyer of this city. They wore gowns of buttercup yellow crystalette styled with a dropped waistline and portrait neckline. Their bouffant skirts were floor length. They wore matching pillbox hats and carried bouquets of orchid flowers and roses with orchid streamers.

Walter Burr of this city served as best man. The ushers were Albert Baltz and Philip Feeney.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Alpine. The couple left on a trip to the New England states and Canada. For traveling, the bride chose a navy and white checked suit with navy accessories and a corsage of fleur d'amour and lilies of the valley. On their return, the couple will make their home on Harwich street, this city.

The bride, a graduate of Kingston High School, attended State Teachers College, New Paltz, and Moran - Spencerian School of Business. She is with the New York Telephone Co.

The bridegroom, a graduate of Kingston High School, is associated in business with his father.

Civil Air Patrol Will Play Important Role In Atomic Tests This Month Says Lt. Lane

Civil Air Patrol personnel and planes will play an important part in the Civil Defense program tests this month, it has been announced by Lt. Sidney Lane, Commander of the Kingston Squadron. According to information received from Major Gen. Lucas V. Beau, National Commander of the Civil Air Patrol, civilian auxiliary of the Air Force, America's thousands of private pilots and light plane owners will have a critical public service to play in the event of any atomic attack upon the United States.

"THERE ARE TWO major problems with which we must deal if any American city is struck by an atomic bomb," he declared in discussing the Civil Air Patrol's role in the atomic test project of the Federal Civil Defense Administration scheduled for the Nevada Test Site of the Atomic Energy Commission in mid-April.

"If we are attacked," continued General Beau, "we must reckon first with the problem of mass evacuation. Secondly, we must be prepared to bring help to those who are caught within the area of the blast. In either case private pilots with their single-engine lightplanes based at hundreds of small airports across the nation will be called upon to perform a variety of missions for which their planes and training are especially adapted.

"IN THE CASE of mass evacuation, traffic congestion certainly will throw up roadblocks in the way of the hurrying populace. This is where the small, radio-equipped private plane with its ability to fly low and slow will be pressed into service providing aerial eyes for police agencies charged with the responsibility of keeping the flow of human traffic moving. In many cities the planes and volunteer crewmen of the Civil Air Patrol already have begun training for this critical role. City officials and Civil Defense authorities have been enthusiastic in their praise of the assistance rendered by light aviation.

LT. LANE, who has a private pilot's license, has announced that cadets will be studying flight theory and navigation under the current Civil Air Patrol program here in Kingston. He plans a trip to Steward Field in the near future to acquaint cadets with aviation from a first-hand inspection.

Anyone who is interested in this program is invited to the meeting of Kingston Squadron, Civil Air Patrol, Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. at MJM School. Lt. Lane is anxious to build up the strength of the squadron and "make it one of the finest in the Hudson valley."

The importance of civilian pilots is emphasized by Gen. Beau who continued in his report:

"After an enemy nuclear bomb has devastated an American city the light-plane and its volunteer pilot have an even more important role—that of bringing in doctors and nurses, blood, medical supplies and uncontaminated food and water. When surface transportation is hindered by wrecked bridges, toppled buildings and abandoned vehicles, the lightplane can land in vacant lots, athletic fields, stadiums, golf courses, parks and cleared roadways."

IN LAST SUMMER'S nationwide Civil Defense program—"Operation Alert"—Civil Air Patrol planes operating into a 900 foot football field in downtown Washington, D. C., airlifted 1,700 pints of whole blood to within 100 yards of the Civil Defense command post in the nation's capital. In still another training mission, CAP pilots airlifted an entire field hospital complete with 16 beds, two doctors, four nurses, first aid attendants, its own electric power plant, portable operating table and equipment into Philadelphia after an "atomic bomb" exploded in the Navy Yard. Contemporary private planes ranging from Cubs to four-place Navions were used exclusively.

"IN THE APRIL atomic test dubbed 'Operation Cue' still another role of the lightplane will be demonstrated," General Beau revealed.

"For the first time," he said, "a CAP lightplane—flown by a Civil Air Patrol pilot—will go in at low altitude over a blast site to measure the level of nuclear radiation after the explosion. A trained Civil Defense monitor flying as a passenger and using special equipment will take the readings."

General Beau also revealed that the Civil Air Patrol has more than 5,300 planes available from coast to coast to support local Civil Defense organizations as well as to perform certain non-combatant missions in support of the air force.

Temple Trustees Plan Dinner for Joseph E. Honig

Trustees of Temple Emanuel have changed plans for paying tribute to Joseph E. Honig April 17, as originally scheduled, and it was announced today that he will be honored at a dinner in the fall.

The board announced in a statement released today:

"In response to public sentiment, the Board of Trustees of Temple Emanuel have changed their plans to honor Joseph E. Honig at a cocktail party originally scheduled for the evening of April 17.

"Many of his friends felt that a dinner would be a meaningful vehicle of expressing their esteem and appreciation for Mr. Honig's many religious, civic and philanthropic activities. In view of this widespread reaction, the Board of Trustees decided to eliminate the proposed cocktail party at the temple, and substitute for it a testimonial dinner to be slated in the fall.

"In deference to Mr. Honig's wishes, the funds derived from the dinner will be used for Temple Emanuel and the "combined campaign' of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations, Hebrew Union College and Jewish Institute of Religion.

"Details of the affair will be announced."

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the resolution published herewith has been adopted by the Town Board of the Town of Ulster, Ulster County, New York, on the 7th day of April, 1955, and the validity of the obligations authorized by such resolution may be hereafter contested only if such obligations were authorized for an object or purpose for which said Town is not authorized to expend money, or if the provisions of law which should have been complied with as of the date of publication of this notice were not substantially complied with, and an action, suit or proceeding contesting such validity is commenced within twenty days after the date of publication of this notice, or such obligations were authorized in violation of the provisions of the Constitution.

Dated: Town of Ulster, New York, April 7th, 1955.

LAURA K. EVERY Town Clerk

BOND RESOLUTION DATED APRIL 7, 1955.

A RESOLUTION AUTHORIZING THE CONSTRUCTION OF A WATER SYSTEM FOR THE ULSTER WATER DISTRICT IN THE TOWN OF ULSTER, ULSTER COUNTY, NEW YORK, AT A MAXIMUM ESTIMATED COST OF $680,000, AND AUTHORIZING THE ISSUANCE OF $680,000 SERIAL BONDS OF SAID TOWN TO PAY THE COST THEREOF.

WHEREAS, this Town Board, at a duly called special meeting held on March 23, 1955, adopted an order establishing the Ulster Water District in the Town of Ulster, Ulster County, New York; and

WHEREAS it is now desired to provide for the financing of a water system to serve said District, NOW THEREFORE, BE IT

RESOLVED, by the Town Board of the Town of Ulster, Ulster County, New York, as follows:

Section 1. The construction of a water supply and distribution system for the Ulster Water District in the Town of Ulster, Ulster County, New York, in accordance with the map and plan attached to the petition for the establishment of said District, including water purification or treatment works, water mains, distributing pipes, and hydrants, original furnishings, equipment, machinery and apparatus, the acquisition of the necessary source of water supply, and land and rights in land, is hereby authorized at a maximum estimated cost of $680,000.

Section 2. The plan of financing for such object or purpose consists of the issuance of $680,000 serial bonds of said Town, hereby authorized.

Section 3. The faith and credit of said Town of Ulster, Ulster County, New York, are hereby pledged to the payment of the principal of and interest on said bonds. There shall annually be assessed and levied upon all the taxable real property within said Ulster Water District, in the same manner and at the same time as other town charges, an amount sufficient to pay the principal of and interest on such bonds as the same become due and payable, but if not paid from such source, all the taxable real property of said Town shall be subject to the levy of ad valorem taxes without limitation as to rate or amount sufficient to pay such principal and interest as the same become due and payable.

Section 4. It is hereby determined that subdivision 1 of paragraph a of Section 11.00 of the Local Finance Law applies to said object or purpose, and that the period of probable usefulness thereof is forty years.

Section 5. It is hereby determined that the proposed maturity of the obligations herein authorized will be in excess of five years.

Section 6. The validity of such bonds may be contested only if:

(1) Such bonds are authorized for an object or purpose for which said Town is not authorized to expend money, or

(2) The provisions of law which should be complied with at the date of publication of this resolution are not substantially complied with, and an action, suit or proceeding contesting such validity is commenced within twenty days after the date of such publication, or

(3) Such bonds are authorized in violation of the provisions of the Constitution.

Section 7. This resolution which takes effect immediately shall be published in full in The Kingston Daily Freeman, together with a notice of the Town Clerk in substantially the form provided in Section 81.00 of the Local Finance Law.

GIVING A THEATER PARTY

A young girl writes me: "I will be celebrating my eighteenth birthday soon and instead of having a regular birthday party, mother said that I could have a theater party this year. I am pleased with the idea but never having given a theater party before I don't know how to go about it. Will you please help me with the details?"

First of all your mother (and you) decide on the number to be invited. Then buy the tickets for whichever evening you can get the number and location that you want. Invitations could either be telephoned or short notes written. When you have received all of your replies, draw a diagram of the seats at the theater and seat all of your guests exactly as you would seat a dinner table so that those who like each other shall be seated together. Then a day or two before the party, mail the right ticket to each girl and boy along with a card on which you write, "Please be in the lobby of the Apollo Theater at 8:15. On the evening of the theater you stand in the lobby to receive your guests. As soon as several of them arrive they are sent into the theater. Each gives her (or his) ticket to the usher who shows each to her (or his) seat. When the last guest has arrived you go to your own seat. If there is to be a supper afterwards at your house, it is up to you to provide a means for their getting there.

Concerning Open-Faced Sandwiches

Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please tell me the correct way to eat an open-faced sandwich? Should both halves be put together and then picked up and eaten in the fingers, or should it be left on the plate and eaten with a knife and fork?

Answer: Unless it is completely dry, an open-faced sandwich should be eaten with a knife and fork, and if it is a hot one with gravy, it must be.

A Club Secretary

Dear Mrs. Post: I am the corresponding secretary of a study club. When writing letters to other organizations on matters concerning the club as a whole, is it proper just to sign The X Study Club, or must I also add my name, under the name of the club.

Answer: You sign The X Study Club, and then your own signature beneath followed by "Secretary."

School Problem

Boston, April 12 (AP) — A Massachusetts education official says the town of Mt. Washington on the Massachusetts-New York state line is isolated educationally. Raymond A. Fitzgerald, deputy commissioner of education told a legislative committee yesterday that the town was "frozen out" of a school union established recently by several neighboring towns. The town has a population of 50 and its six children go to school in Copake, N. Y., just over the line. Up for hearing before the committee on education was a bill to empower the school committee to perform the legal functions of a superintendent. State law requires a superintendent to certify bills for education of a town's children.

Degree for Ike

Washington, April 12 (AP)—President Eisenhower flew South today to accept an honorary degree at The Citadel and take a golf-and-work vacation at Augusta, Ga. His plane, the Columbine, took off from National Airport under overcast skies at 7:34 a. m. The first stop, some two hours away, was Charleston, S. C., where the President's old comrade-in-arms, retired Gen. Mark W. Clark, heads the military school. There he was to be given a doctor of laws degree. After the outdoor ceremony and a brief reception, he was to take off for Augusta where he expects to stay until April 20.

Richard Anderson, 23, who entered a plea of guilty to burglary, third degree, last week for entrance to the New Paltz Savings Bank, where nothing was disturbed, and also entrance to a New Paltz store, was given from 5 to 10 years at hard labor in Clinton State Prison Monday afternoon by County Judge John M. Cashin. Anderson was sentenced as a second offender.

THE NEW PALTZ man admitted on information that he had been convicted in Ontario county on October 22, 1952, of third degree burglary and had been sentenced to Elmira Reformatory. In imposing sentence Judge Cashin allowed credit for the time served in jail. Louis DiDonna appeared for defendant.

William David Raible, 22, of 71 East Chester street, was given a suspended sentence in the county jail on his plea of guilty to taking a car last March. Charles Saccoman appeared for Raible and told the court the defendant had been drinking and had taken the car in Port Ewen, driven to a restaurant in Kingston and then home where he parked the car. Saccoman said Railble had not been responsible for the act and there had been no intention of stealing a car. He referred to the services of Raible in Korea and said the complainant had requested no prosecution be taken. A letter to that effect was on file with the district attorney. In suspending a year jail sentence, Judge Cashin made a part of the probation requirement the payment of $60 for damage done the car. Bail was exonerated.

Dulles Points Out Scheme by Reds

Washington, April 12 (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles says Communist leaders are scheming to build up "a popular demand for peace at any price."

If such a mood became prevalent, he said, the Communists could "easily conquer the world."

Addressing the fifth annual All-Jesuit alumni dinner. Dulles said last night the Communists could "confront the free peoples with successive choices between peace and surrender; and if peace is the absolute goal, then surrenders become inevitable."

In such circumstances, Dulles said, "peace can be a cover whereby evil men can perpetrate diabolical wrongs."

"Craven purchase of peace at the expense of principle" could destroy man's "capacity for moral and intellectual judgment," he said, and give world leadership to "those who believe that men are in fact nothing more than animated bits of matter."

Temple Trustees Plan Dinner for Joseph E. Honig

Trustees of Temple Emanuel have changed plans for paying tribute to Joseph E. Honig April 17, as originally scheduled, and it was announced today that he will be honored at a dinner in the fall.

The board announced in a statement released today:

"In response to public sentiment, the Board of Trustees of Temple Emanuel have changed their plans to honor Joseph E. Honig at a cocktail party originally scheduled for the evening of April 17.

"Many of his friends felt that a dinner would be a meaningful vehicle of expressing their esteem and appreciation for Mr. Honig's many religious, civic and philanthropic activities. In view of this widespread reaction, the Board of Trustees decided to eliminate the proposed cocktail party at the temple, and substitute for it a testimonial dinner to be slated in the fall.

"In deference to Mr. Honig's wishes, the funds derived from the dinner will be used for Temple Emanuel and the "combined campaign' of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations, Hebrew Union College and Jewish Institute of Religion.

"Details of the affair will be announced."

BOND RESOLUTION DATED APRIL 7, 1955.

A RESOLUTION AUTHORIZING THE CONSTRUCTION OF A WATER SYSTEM FOR THE ULSTER WATER DISTRICT IN THE TOWN OF ULSTER, ULSTER COUNTY, NEW YORK, AT A MAXIMUM ESTIMATED COST OF $680,000, AND AUTHORIZING THE ISSUANCE OF $680,000 SERIAL BONDS OF SAID TOWN TO PAY THE COST THEREOF.

WHEREAS, this Town Board, at a duly called special meeting held on March 23, 1955, adopted an order establishing the Ulster Water District in the Town of Ulster, Ulster County, New York; and

WHEREAS it is now desired to provide for the financing of a water system to serve said District, NOW THEREFORE, BE IT

RESOLVED, by the Town Board of the Town of Ulster, Ulster County, New York, as follows:

Section 1. The construction of a water supply and distribution system for the Ulster Water District in the Town of Ulster, Ulster County, New York, in accordance with the map and plan attached to the petition for the establishment of said District, including water purification or treatment works, water mains, distributing pipes and hydrants, original furnishings, equipment, machinery and apparatus, the acquisition of the necessary source of water supply, and land and rights in land, is hereby authorized at a maximum estimated cost of $680,000.

Section 2. The plan of financing for such object or purpose consists of the issuance of $680,000 serial bonds of said Town, hereby authorized.

Section 3. The faith and credit of said Town of Ulster, Ulster County, New York, are hereby pledged to the payment of the principal of and interest on said bonds. There shall annually be assessed and levied upon all the taxable real property within said Ulster Water District, in the same manner and at the same time as other town charges, an amount sufficient to pay the principal of and interest on such bonds as the same become due and payable, but if not paid from such source, all the taxable real property of said Town shall be subject to the levy of ad valorem taxes without limitation as to rate or amount sufficient to pay such principal and interest as the same become due and payable.

Section 4. It is hereby determined that subdivision 1 of paragraph a of Section 11.00 of the Local Finance Law applies to said object or purpose, and that the period of probable usefulness thereof is forty years.

Section 5. It is hereby determined that the proposed maturity of the obligations herein authorized will be in excess of five years.

Section 6. The validity of such bonds may be contested only if:

(1) Such bonds are authorized for an object or purpose for which said Town is not authorized to expend money, or

(2) The provisions of law which should be complied with at the date of publication of this resolution are not substantially complied with, and an action, suit or proceeding contesting such validity is commenced within twenty days after the date of such publication, or

(3) Such bonds are authorized in violation of the provisions of the Constitution.

Section 7. This resolution which takes effect immediately shall be published in full in The Kingston Daily Freeman, together with a notice of the Town Clerk in substantially the form provided in Section 81.00 of the Local Finance Law.

Just what is a Common Stock?

Question submitted by Maurice Harris, tel. maint. man, Bayside, N. Y.

A recent survey showed that 77% of the adult population could not correctly define a common stock. So we believe that the answer to this question will be of interest to many people. A common stock represents an ownership interest in a company—including its plants, equipment and inventories. When you own stock, you share in the company's growth and any profits it may pay out as dividends. (Depending largely on how your company prospers, of course, your stock may increase or decrease in value.) As a shareowner, you can direct how your stock will be voted at stockholders' meetings to elect the directors of the company who in turn select the management.

How do you buy stocks on a sound basis?

Question submitted by Elsie Gould, singer, Ashland, Ohio.

First, make sure you have insurance and savings for emergencies. Second, be conservative—avoid "get-rich-quick" schemes and consider well-managed, long-established companies. There are many on the New York Stock Exchange. Third, beware of tips—get sound advice and the facts on companies you're interested in before you invest. You can get advice and the facts—without cost or obligation—from a registered representative with a Member Firm of the Exchange.

FREE BOOKLET... tells you what stocks are, what cash dividends particular stocks have paid, how to buy stocks and about the new pay-as-you-go Monthly Investment Plan. Tasty Dips and Potato Chips Enliven Spring Parties

POTATO CHIPS and zestful dips are perfect for your springtime entertaining.

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor

Entertaining picks up again now that Easter is here. So how would you like a few of our recipes for dips?

Use fresh, crisps potato chips with them. Place chips in a large bowl and in smaller bowls have two or three dips on the same tray. Makes pleasant before-dinner snacking.

Chip Dip With Almonds, Bacon (Makes 1¾ cups dip)

One-quarter cup roasted almonds, 2 strips bacon, cooked crisp; 1 cup sharp soft Cheddar type cheese, 1 tablespoon chopped green onion, ½ cup mayonnaise, ½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce.

Chop almonds fine. Crumble bacon. Combine all ingredients and chill before serving.

Teaser Chip Dip (Makes about 1¾ cups)

One-half cup chopped bologna, 2 tablespoons chopped pimento, ¾ cup chopped ripe olives, 3 tablespoons chopped sour pickles, mayonnaise, few drops Tabasco sauce.

Chop first four ingredients very fine. Add enough mayonnaise (about ½ cup) to give good spreading consistency. Chill before serving.

Chip Dip With Minced Clams (Makes 1½ cups)

One cup creamed cottage cheese, 1 clove garlic, ½ cup minced clams, 1 tablespoon clam broth, 1 teaspoon lemon juice, 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon aromatic bitters, chives or green onion tops.

Put garlic through press or chop very fine. There should be about ½ teaspoonful. Mash cottage cheese with fork. Chop clams very fine. Combine all ingredients. Pour into serving bowl and garnish with chives or rings cut from green onion tops. Chill well.

TOMORROW'S DINNER: Grapefruit and orange cup, sauteed liver and bacon, creamed potatoes, broiled tomato halves, salt sticks, chocolate cake, coffee, tea, milk.

Date Moved Up

The closing date for the accountant examination, Announcement No. 2-55-5 (1955), to be used to fill Internal Revenue Agent GS-5 Trainee positions, has been changed from Oct. 5 to April 19. These positions, paying $3,410 a year to start, are located in the Buffalo, Syracuse and Albany Districts of Internal Revenue. Trainees will be considered for promotion to GS-7 paying $4,205 a year following an intensive six-month in-service training program. The written examination will be held on Saturday, April 30 for all applicants. Accounting students should note that courses completed by October 19, may be substituted for required experience.

Dirt in Diets

Chicago (AP)—Texans eat dirt? Yes! Drs. R. S. Clayton and Paul H. Goodman, Dallas radiologists, say dirt-eating apparently is a fairly widespread practice in some areas of north and east Texas. The habit, called geophagia, can be detected by X-ray, they say. They report their discovery in the medical magazine, Radiology. They are associated with the Southern Medical School of the University of Texas and say they have interviewed many patients who eat dirt or have eaten it at some time during their lives.

Pickles for Pickle

Chicago (AP)—A barrel of pickles will be sent to the officers and crew of HMS Pickle, a British mine sweeper by the National Pickle Packers Assn.

HEALTH FOR ALL

SORCERY OR SCIENCE

Drama has marked the long history of the fight against tuberculosis, but perhaps no development has been more dramatic than recent changes in treatment of the disease. Chemotherapy has entered the picture bringing with it new hope and new problems.

What is chemotherapy? It is a general term covering treatment of disease with drugs, and goes back to the alchemists of the Middle Ages in Europe. A long way back, you might say, from the modern scientist in his laboratory to Dr. Faustus muttering spells over strange mixtures in a smoky den. But like the researcher of today, the alchemist was trying to defeat disease, although his methods were not scientific. He believed that if he could only find the right mixture he could create the perfect substance he called "the philosopher's stone" — a drug so powerful it could cure every ailment, turn base metal into gold, and make the possessor of the secret all-powerful. Because of the little knowledge he possessed, he was respected and feared as a sorcerer, and his cures were looked on as miracles.

The modern scientist is not searching for the philosopher's stone, but, through research, he is seeking and finding drugs to treat specific diseases. So much has been accomplished that we are sometimes tempted to expect miracles from him.

In 1944 an antibiotic, streptomycin, derived from a fungus, was found to be effective against tuberculosis. Since then other antibiotics and synthetic chemical compounds such as isoniazid and PAS, short for para-aminosalicylic acid, have been added. But none of them is the complete answer to TB.

The problem of chemotherapy in TB are many. The germs may become reistant to one drug. The patient may not be able to tolerate another. To delay development of resistance, the drugs are usually used in pairs. The choice of drugs for the individual patient the amount of the dose, the length of time treatment should continue—all these questions must be answered.

New drugs are constantly being sought to add to the number of possible choices and combinations. So far, a drug which can eliminate the germs without harming the patient seriously has not been found. The drugs now in use do keep the germs from multiplying so that normal body defenses can fight the disease or so that surgery can be used to remove damaged parts. There's no sorcery in it, and no miracles are being worked. But chemotherapy is saving lives from tuberculosis every day.

West found the only chance to defeat the contract in today's hand when he opened his singleton diamond. He expected to regain the lead pretty quickly with his king of trumps, and then he would have to find a way to reach the East hand. If East could then return a diamond, the ruff would defeat the contract.

Now put yourself in the place of the declarer. You recognize the opening diamond lead as a singleton. You can see the whole plot—that East will get the lead with the ace of clubs and will return a diamond for West to ruff. What can you do about it?

There are several ways to handle this. One way is to ignore the whole business. You play the hand out, give the opponents their 100 points, and go on to the next hand without any comment. A second way is to do a little complaining. You spend about one minute on the enemy's good luck, and about two minutes on your own bad luck. This takes only three minutes altogether, and is time well spent if it relieves your feelings.

The best way to handle the situation is to make your contract despite the excellent defense that West has cooked up. You win the first trick in dummy with the queen of diamonds and lead the king of spades!

East has to play low, of course, and you throw away the eight of clubs. This play, the transfer coup, changes a club trick for East into a spade trick for West and thus transfers the lead from East to West. West gets this spade trick and will eventually get his king of hearts, but he can never get the diamond ruff because East will never get the chance to return a diamond.

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

About 75 years ago, to be exact March 27, 1882, the steamboat Thomas Cornell was lost by runing on Danskammer Point, below Poughkeepsie. She left Rondout at 6 p. m. for New York, and made her regular landings although the weather was hazy. It was while running full speed she ran on Danskammer Point, opposite New Hamburgh. The bow piled up for 30 or 40 feet, and the stern sunk immediately. Luckily, the passengers walked ashore on the point without trouble. Later they were rescued by the John L. Hasbrouck. The steamboat was so baly strained that she was abandoned. It is said, the hull was finally released and she was cut in two and became two barges on Long Island Sound. Perhaps there is more information somewhere on the Thomas Cornell and how she was made into two barges.

With the coming of summer how could one help but think of the Dayline boats. Perhaps this year they will stop at Kingston. It is interesting to go back to Robert Fulton's Clermont which made it from New York to Albany in 32 hours back in 1807. The Mary Powell was able to do 27 miles an hour when she appeared on the Hudson in 1861, 50 years later. In 1909, 100 years after the Clermont made its first run, the Robert Fulton was put on the Hudson. It is said she has some of the most up-to-date construction and historical features in the way of fittings covering the entire period of navigation of the Hudson. Her cabins are historical museums, containing over two score of specially designed paintings and valuable historical relics related directly to river boats. These paintings, done in color, were designed and executed by S. Ward Stanton in his New York studio and later permanently attached to the walls of the Robert Fulton. It must be interesting for one interested in Hudson river history to steam along the Hudson river and at the same time have a chance to enjoy this floating museum. I do hope that when the Robert Fulton lives out its usefulness on the river it will not be destroyed as the Mary Powell was and other interesting steamships but will be adopted by some Marine Museum.

It is said, the construction of the Robert Fulton is practically fireproof, steel, asbestos and other non-burnable materials used, even to the sides and trim of the cabins. The hull is of steel, divided into five watertight compartments by four transverse bulkheads . These bulkheads form a part of hull proper and make the boat nonsinkable. The lunchroom is 70 feet long, and finished in ship cabin style, with the use of quaint and pleasing form of joinery. At the time the Robert Fulton was built the main enclosed deck given over for passengers was painted a Delft blue. The floor was covered with asbethtolith, which fireproof material was carried up the side of the room to the window rail. I do not know if the grand saloon is still in the form of a formal Italian garden, with carved pillars and growing plants, palms, vines, cages with birds and luxurious furniture. Here is also displayed the original bell of the Clermont, the original dinner bell of the Clermont and the necks of the bottles used for christening the Robert Fulton. Who remembers seeing these items. We are so rich in the history of navigation. Let us never forget it.

Third Meeting Set

The third meeting in a series of four on community planning will be held Tuesday, April 19, starting at 8 p. m., at the Campus School, New Paltz, Charles E. Moehrke, seminar chairman, said today. Maines Sport Shop, Rapp's Express in Intermediate Finals

Sports Defeat Frank's 53-52 In Final Seconds

Ashdown's 2 Fouls Decide Thriller

Rapp's Express and Maines Sport Shop gained a spot in the Recreation Intermediate League Shaughnessy playoff finals last night.

The Sportsmen shaded Frank's Barber Shop, 53-52, when Ronnie Ashdown converted a pair of fouls with two seconds left to play.

With Butch Tomaseskie hitting 18 points, Rapp's held a comfortable lead all the way. Fisher aided with 14 points. Dittus canned nine for the losers.

THE FRANKS-MAINES contest was almost a replica of the Monticello-Sickler classic in the recent Kingston tournament.

Frank's held quarter leads of 8-5, 28-21 and 41-40 and stayed in front until Ashdown converted the two free throws.

Ashdown finished with 18 points. High scoring honors went to Simmons with 19 markers. Sember and Chase hit 13 and 11 respectively for the Barbers.

THE TWO TEAMS meet Thursday night in a sudden death playoff for the championship.

The Recreation League usually stages a best-of-three series in the Shaughnessy finals but because of the lateness of the season the series has been made a single elimination.

Junior semi-finalists meet tonight with the finals also set for Thursday.

Wouldn't You Know It, Dressen's Back on Top

By JOE REICHLER
The Associated Press

Charlie Dressen is right back where he was when he left—in first place.

He's in a new league and a new town, but the peppery little guy who quit the Brooklyn Dodgers in 1953 after leading them to two successive pennants, is still riding high.

After his first game as manager of Washington, he and his Senators find themselves right on top today by virtue of yesterday's 12-5 opening day victory over Baltimore in the American League's only game. The rest of the circuit gets going today.

THE NATIONAL LEAGUE, not to be outdone, had an early opener, too. This was ruined for the home folks, however, when Chicago thrashed the Redlegs 7-5 for the Cubs' sixth successive opening day triumph.

A crowd of 32,195 saw the cubs blast four Cincinnati hurlers for 11 hits including home runs by Gene Baker and Harry Chiti. Ted Kluszewski, the majors' 1954 home run king, hit one for the Reds.

In Washington, a crowd of 26,684 saw a pair of veteran righthanders — President Dwight D. Eisenhower and Senator Bob Porterfield — combine their talents to throttle the Orioles with six hits.

THE CHIEF EXECUTIVE jinxed Washington's opposition for the second straight year, tossing out the first ball which, incidentally, was caught by the Senator's Pete Runnels. Porterfield picked up from there and went the distance. A year ago, the President combined with Pitchers Chuck Stobbs and Sonny Dixon to defeat the New York Yankees 5-3.

Charley Dressen

All 16 clubs swing into action today. Kansas City makes its American League debut at the refurbished municipal stadium against Detroit before an expected 35,000 crowd.

The city whooped it up for its new heroes yesterday with a colorful parade through the downtown streets. It hopes to do the same today after southpaw Alex Kellner takes the mound against the Tigers' Ned Garver.

TODAY'S LARGEST crowd is expected in Cleveland, where some 50,000 fans may see the Indians make their opening defense of the American League title against the Chicago White Sox. Bob Lemon, a 23-game winner, will oppose Virgil Trucks, who won 19.

The runner-up New York Yankees open at home against Washington with lefty Whitey Ford opposing the Senators' Maury McDermott. Some 25,000 are expected. In another game, Baltimore faces the Boston Red Sox before a home turnout of about 40,000. Joe Coleman is slated to face Frank Sullivan of the Red Sox.

The National League lines up with New York's champion Giants at Philadelphia, Pittsburgh at Brooklyn, Cincinnati at Milwaukee and St. Louis at Chicago.

ROBIN ROBERTS makes his sixth straight opening game start for the Phils. He will be opposed by 21-game winner Johnny Antonelli.

An expected crowd of 25,000 may see both Del Ennis and Richie Ashburn in the lineup. Original reports had Ennis out for at least a month because of a broken leg suffered in a collision with Ashburn last Friday. Latest report is that "the hairline fracture" of the knee won't keep him from playing. Ashburn is recovering from a pulled tendon in the knee.

Some 40,000 will see Warren Spahn take the mound for the Braves against Cincinnati's Gerry Staley in Milwaukee. Another 25,000 are expected to see the Cards Brooks Lawrence square off against the Cubs' Paul Minner in Chicago. The smallest crowd—17,000—figures to be on hand in Brooklyn when Carl Erskine faces Max Surkont of the Pirates.

SPORTS

By Charles J. Tiano
Sports Editor

"Why," asked the man, "do you always pick against the Giants in the National League?"

Fair question. Will give you a couple of fair answers. No. 1 the Brooklyn Dodgers. No. 2, it would be a dull summer if we couldn't haggle with the horde of Giant rooters that swarm over the local landscape. Never a dull day rooting against the Giants.

● Flotsam and Jetsam:

The 424 points scooed by Mrnty Stickles and Mickey Burkoski for the DUSO League leadership was a new league record for 16 games. Leroy Hooker hit 339 in 13 games for KHS during the 1951-52 season when he set the all-time Maroon seasonal record of 500 points. Did you ever see a sports fan who could turn a stadium or auditorium into a turmoil like Phil Corrado, the Foxhall avenue barkeep? The Ellenville Shanahan triumph in the Hudson Valley League was no mystery. They only boasted the top four average trundlers—Sam Fisher, Frank Greco, Hammerin' Hank Kemmerer and Tim Bilyeu. . . . Who said sports writers can't recognize talent? The gent who dug up Al Kaline for the Tigers is a Baltimore scribe, who had to give up his bird-dogging when the Browns moved to town because he was assigned to cover them.

● The Giant Line on Score:

A quick poll of the world champion Giants, after being exposed to Cleveland's Herb Score over the training season, merely backed up what everybody else has been saying about the bullet-tossing rookie southpaw.

The Giants, to a man, agree he can't miss. Here's a sample of how they rate fireballing Herb:

WHITEY LOCKMAN—"I've never seen anybody faster than that kid. And what surprised me most was his control."

MONTE IRVIN—"He could become one of the game's greatest."

FRANK SHELLENBACK—"He's got amazing control of his fast one, although he has some trouble getting the curve across. One thing about him—he ddesn't tip his pitches."

ALVIN DARK—"He's a little nervous now. Wait till he gets a couple of wins under his belt."

WILLIE MAYS—"Man, how can I tell you 'bout Score? I haven't seen him pitch yet. All I see the man do is wind up and then the ball is in the catcher's mitt."

● Of Men and Mice:

There is a strong sentiment among high school kids for a full-fledged wrestling program next year at KHS. Guy to watch on Thursday night's amateur boxing card at the auditorium is Ken Barr, the undefeated Rosendale welterweight. Ben Becker, boxing chairman of the Adirondack AAU, rates Barr, an explosive KO artist, "the finest prospect I have seen in years." Return of boxing recalls the parade of pugilistic greats who have appeared in Kingston over the years, using one name or another. The list includes three former world's champions—Lou Ambers, lightweight (Otis Paradise); Marty Servo, welterweight, (Mario Severino) and Sugar Ray Robinson (Sugar Ray). Kingstonians also watched Vinnie Vines (Vince Semprevino), Chico Behar, Coley Wallace, Paul Simpson, Tony Barone, Baby Face Decker, Carmine Virgilio, Harry Smith and Art Suffalato, who tagged current welterweight champion, Tony DeMarco, with an early career setback. One sad item about Thursday. Fred Eisler's familiar face will be missing at ringside.

Best long range bet in the majors this season—The Pittsburgh Pirates will not finish last in the National League.

Reynolds Sues Bus Company For Old Back Injury

Philadelphia, April 12 (AP)—The Philadelphia Transportation Co., has been sued for $235,250 damages by former pitching star Allie Reynolds of the New York Yankees.

Reynolds, who retired this year, claimed he suffered "severe, painful and permanent" injuries when a chartered PTC bus in which he was riding crashed under an elevated train trestle here July 7, 1953.

The bus was taking Yankees players from Connie Mack Stadium to Pennsylvania railroad station after a ball game.

Reynolds' suit, filed in U. S. District Court yesterday, contended the accident was caused "solely by the negligence of the company and its employes."

Reynolds attributed his retirement to a recurring back ailment.

Lincoln Meeting

All members of last year's Lincoln Park Inn softball squad and candidates for this season's team are invited to attend a meeting on Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. at the inn.

Hints Olympics Might Be Moved From Melbourne

Canberra, Australia, April 12 (AP)—Avery Brundage, president of the International Olympic Committee, flatly warned Australians the 1956 Olympic games could be taken from Melbourne if the city is not ready in time.

Apparently unmindful of a storm of protest swirling up over his criticism of preparations for the games, Brundage told a press conference he had a cable in his pocket from one city asking to take over the games and said there had been requests from others. He was not prepared at this stage to say who the other cities were.

"WE ARE NOT threatening to take the games from Melbourne, for it would be a big embarrassment to us if that happened," Brundage said.

He spoke after meeting with Prime Minister Robert Menzies, who he said, was devoted to the success of the Melbourne games.

"I think the prime minister is more interested in the games being a triumph than anyone else," he commented.

Marlboro Whips Cornwall In Baseball Opener, 12 to 4

Brooks Fans 14 And Cracks Homer

Marlboro Central got a jump on area scholastic baseball teams yesterday by launching the 1955 season with a 12-4 victory over Cornwall-Hudson.

Senior pitching ace, George Brooks, scattered eight hits effectively and aided his own cause with a homer.

Brooks walked four and struck out 14.

SIX OF THE eight Marlboro safeties off three Cornwall flingers went for extra bases. Ed Mullin whacked a pair of triples and Joe Sarra and Carston Conn had doubles.

NEVER MISSED

New York — (NEA) — In six World Series, Babe Ruth never hit less than .300.

PORTERFIELD SCORES FIRST RUN—Bob Porterfield, Washington Senators pitcher, scores standing up for the first run in the April 11 Washington-Baltimore Orioles season opener. Catcher Harold Smith of the Orioles got the ball too late for a play. Umpire is Bill Grieve. Porterfield scored from third in the third inning on Mickey Vernon's infield bounder. (AP Wirephoto)

ATHLETICS COME TO KANSAS CITY—Connie Mack, venerable former owner of the ex-Philadelphia Athletics, sits with Mayor William E. Kemp of Kansas City, Mo., (April 11) at airport surrounded by baseball fans who came to witness the arrival of the new Kansas City American League team. Players and officials flew direct from Philadelphia. Later they paraded through the city to precede A's opener against Detroit Tigers in new home park next day. (AP Wirephoto)

Wouldn't You Know It, Dressen's Back on Top

By JOE REICHLER
The Associated Press

Charlie Dressen is right back where he was when he left—in first place.

He's in a new league and a new town, but the peppery little guy who quit the Brooklyn Dodgers in 1953 after leading them to two successive pennants, is still riding high.

After his first game as manager of Washington, he and his Senators find themselves right on top today by virtue of yesterday's 12-5 opening day victory over Baltimore in the American League's only game. The rest of the circuit gets going today.

THE NATIONAL LEAGUE, not to be outdone, had an early opener, too. This was ruined for the home folks, however, when Chicago thrashed the Redlegs 7-5 for the Cubs' sixth successive opening day triumph.

A crowd of 32,195 saw the cubs blast four Cincinnati hurlers for 11 hits including home runs by Gene Baker and Harry Chiti. Ted Kluszewski, the majors' 1954 home run king, hit one for the Reds.

In Washington, a crowd of 26,684 saw a pair of veteran righthanders — President Dwight D. Eisenhower and Senator Bob Porterfield — combine their talents to throttle the Orioles with six hits.

THE CHIEF EXECUTIVE jinxed Washington's opposition for the second straight year, tossing out the first ball which, incidentally, was caught by the Senator's Pete Runnels. Porterfield picked up from there and went the distance. A year ago, the President combined with Pitchers Chuck Stobbs and Sonny Dixon to defeat the New York Yankees 5-3.

Charley Dressen

All 16 clubs swing into action today. Kansas City makes its American League debut at the refurbished municipal stadium against Detroit before an expected 35,000 crowd.

The city whooped it up for its new heroes yesterday with a colorful parade through the downtown streets. It hopes to do the same today after southpaw Alex Kellner takes the mound against the Tigers' Ned Garver.

TODAY'S LARGEST crowd is expected in Cleveland, where some 50,000 fans may see the Indians make their opening defense of the American League title against the Chicago White Sox. Bob Lemon, a 23-game winner, will oppose Virgil Trucks, who won 19.

The runner-up New York Yankees open at home against Washington with lefty Whitey Ford opposing the Senators' Maury McDermott. Some 25,000 are expected. In another game, Baltimore faces the Boston Red Sox before a home turnout of about 40,000. Joe Coleman is slated to face Frank Sullivan of the Red Sox.

The National League lines up with New York's champion Giants at Philadelphia, Pittsburgh at Brooklyn, Cincinnati at Milwaukee and St. Louis at Chicago.

ROBIN ROBERTS makes his sixth straight opening game start for the Phils. He will be opposed by 21-game winner Johnny Antonelli.

An expected crowd of 25,000 may see both Del Ennis and Richie Ashburn in the lineup. Original reports had Ennis out for at least a month because of a broken leg suffered in a collision with Ashburn last Friday. Latest report is that "the hairline fracture" of the knee won't keep him from playing. Ashburn is recovering from a pulled tendon in the knee.

Some 40,000 will see Warren Spahn take the mound for the Braves against Cincinnati's Gerry Staley in Milwaukee. Another 25,000 are expected to see the Cards Brooks Lawrence square off against the Cubs' Paul Minner in Chicago. The smallest crowd—17,000—figures to be on hand in Brooklyn when Carl Erskine faces Max Surkont of the Pirates.

SPORTS

By Charles J. Tiano
Sports Editor

"Why," asked the man, "do you always pick against the Giants in the National League?"

Fair question. Will give you a couple of fair answers. No. 1 the Brooklyn Dodgers. No. 2, it would be a dull summer if we couldn't haggle with the horde of Giant rooters that swarm over the local landscape. Never a dull day rooting against the Giants.

• Flotsam and Jetsam:

The 424 points scooed by Mrnty Stickles and Mickey Burkoski for the DUSO League leadership was a new league record for 16 games. Leroy Hooker hit 339 in 13 games for KHS during the 1951-52 season when he set the all-time Maroon seasonal record of 500 points. Did you ever see a sports fan who could turn a stadium or auditorium into a turmoil like Phil Corrado, the Foxhall avenue barkeep? The Ellenville Shanahan triumph in the Hudson Valley League was no mystery. They only boasted the top four average trundlers—Sam Fisher, Frank Greco, Hammerin' Hank Kemmerer and Tim Bilyeu. . . . Who said sports writers can't recognize talent? The gent who dug up Al Kaline for the Tigers is a Baltimore scribe, who had to give up his bird-dogging when the Browns moved to town because he was assigned to cover them.

• The Giant Line on Score:

A quick poll of the world champion Giants, after being exposed to Cleveland's Herb Score over the training season, merely backed up what everybody else has been saying about the bullet-tossing rookie southpaw.

The Giants, to a man, agree he can't miss. Here's a sample of how they rate fireballing Herb:

WHITEY LOCKMAN—"I've never seen anybody faster than that kid. And what surprised me most was his control."

MONTE IRVIN—"He could become one of the game's greatest."

FRANK SHELLENBACK—"He's got amazing control of his fast one, although he has some trouble getting the curve across. One thing about him—he ddesn't tip his pitches."

ALVIN DARK—"He's a little nervous now. Wait till he gets a couple of wins under his belt."

WILLIE MAYS—"Man, how can I tell you 'bout Score? I haven't seen him pitch yet. All I see the man do is wind up and then the ball is in the catcher's mitt."

• Of Men and Mice:

There is a strong sentiment among high school kids for a full-fledged wrestling program next year at KHS. Guy to watch on Thursday night's amateur boxing card at the auditorium is Ken Barr, the undefeated Rosendale welterweight. Ben Becker, boxing chairman of the Adirondack AAU, rates Barr, an explosive KO artist, "the finest prospect I have seen in years." Return of boxing recalls the parade of pugilistic greats who have appeared in Kingston over the years, using one name or another. The list includes three former world's champions—Lou Ambers, lightweight (Otis Paradise); Marty Servo, welterweight, (Mario Severino) and Sugar Ray Robinson (Sugar Ray). Kingstonians also watched Vinnie Vines (Vince Semprevino), Chico Behar, Coley Wallace, Paul Simpson, Tony Barone, Baby Face Decker, Carmine Virgilio, Harry Smith and Art Suffalato, who tagged current welterweight champion, Tony DeMarco, with an early career setback. One sad item about Thursday. Fred Eisler's familiar face will be missing at ringside.

Best long range bet in the majors this season—The Pittsburgh Pirates will not finish last in the National League.

Reynolds Sues Bus Company For Old Back Injury

Philadelphia, April 12 (AP)—The Philadelphia Transportation Co., has been sued for $235,250 damages by former pitching star Allie Reynolds of the New York Yankees.

Reynolds, who retired this year, claimed he suffered "severe, painful and permanent" injuries when a chartered PTC bus in which he was riding crashed under an elevated train trestle here July 7, 1953.

The bus was taking Yankees players from Connie Mack Stadium to Pennsylvania railroad station after a ball game.

Reynolds' suit, filed in U. S. District Court yesterday, contended the accident was caused "solely by the negligence of the company and its employes."

Reynolds attributed his retirement to a recurring back ailment.

Lincoln Meeting

All members of last year's Lincoln Park Inn softball squad and candidates for this season's team are invited to attend a meeting on Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. at the inn.

Hints Olympics Might Be Moved From Melbourne

Canberra, Australia, April 12 (AP)—Avery Brundage, president of the International Olympic Committee, flatly warned Australians the 1956 Olympic games could be taken from Melbourne if the city is not ready in time.

Apparently unmindful of a storm of protest swirling up over his criticism of preparations for the games, Brundage told a press conference he had a cable in his pocket from one city asking to take over the games and said there had been requests from others. He was not prepared at this stage to say who the other cities were.

"WE ARE NOT threatening to take the games from Melbourne, for it would be a big embarrassment to us if that happened," Brundage said.

He spoke after meeting with Prime Minister Robert Menzies, who he said, was devoted to the success of the Melbourne games.

"I think the prime minister is more interested in the games being a triumph than anyone else," he commented.

Marlboro Whips Cornwall In Baseball Opener, 12 to 4

Brooks Fans 14 And Cracks Homer

Marlboro Central got a jump on area scholastic baseball teams yesterday by launching the 1955 season with a 12-4 victory over Cornwall-Hudson.

Senior pitching ace, George Brooks, scattered eight hits effectively and aided his own cause with a homer.

Brooks walked four and struck out 14.

SIX OF THE eight Marlboro safeties off three Cornwall flingers went for extra bases. Ed Mullin whacked a pair of triples and Joe Sarra and Carston Conn had doubles.

Nagy's Keglers Miss First by 3 Pins in ABC

Fort Wayne, Ind., April 12 (AP)—There were two new teams among the first 10 in the American Bowling Congress tournament today after last night's heavy firing.

Steve Nagy's Cleveland All-Stars missed taking over first place by three pins but their 3,013 total put them right behind the two teams which share the top spot.

Last night's final squad was the highest scoring unit of the tourney, with 11 teams posting totals of 2,800 and higher.

AFTER ROLLING PLUS 1,000 games in their first two efforts, the Cleveland club eased off from the hot pace and finished with a 995 final.

Howards Clothes of St. Paul, Minn., and the Cole Finder Mercury quintet of Chicago share the top spot with 3,015.

Chuck O'Donnell paced Nagy's team with a blistering 690 series which put him in a good position to challenge for the all events lead today. Nagy had the only other 600 on the team, getting a 601.

Anchorman Nelson Burton had a chance to push Nagy's team into the lead in the final frame. He needed a strike with his final ball but dropped only seven pins.

BOWES SEAL FAST of Indianapolis rolled into a tie for sixth place on the final squad last night, getting a 2,968.

Two changes also resulted earlier in the day in the minor events. George Hundycz and Joe Galini of Fulton, N. Y., rolled into fifth in the doubles with 1,249 while Leo Slominski of St. Louis took over sixth in the singles with 686.

Team Standings

Cole Finder-Mercury, Chicago, 3,015.
Howard Clothes, St. Paul, Minn., 3,015.
Steve Nagy's All Stars, Cleveland, 3,013.

Three of Crew Rescued

Singapore, April 12 (AP)—The British navy reported that three crewmen of a crashed Indian airliner were rescued today in the South China Sea. Fifteen persons were still missing, including eight Communist Chinese officials, a North Vietnamese and two Polish journalists—all bound for the African-Asian conference in Indonesia. The navy said the Singapore coastal ship Taype picked up the plane's first engineer, navigator and ground engineer — all Indians — some 200 miles northeast of Singapore, near the Great Natuna Islands. The survivors were reported suffering from slight injuries.

Between A.D. 1200 and 1800, world population increased from about 500 million to 900 million and today it is 2,400,000.

STAR OF FUTURE—This is Ken Barr, the sensational young Rosendale welterweight champion of the Adirondack AAU section of the Golden Gloves. An explosive knockout artist, Barr fights Charlie Shorts of Albany in a three-rounder Thursday night at the municipal auditorium.

Pat Lowry Wins; Giovanelli Skein Reaches Five

New York, April 12 (AP)—Pat Lowry holds a 2-0 edge today over Pete (One-Finger) Adams, but if they were to meet for a third time there still would be a lot of support for the handicapped New Jersey welterweight.

Lowry, a 25-year-old ex-marine from Toledo, O., finished with a rush last night to score a majority decision over the 23-year-old Adams in a telecast 10-rounder at St. Nicholas Arena. The crowd-pleasing Ohio Irishman landed enough overhand rights to the head in the last two rounds to edge Petey in the scoring.

REFEREE BARNEY Felix had Pat in front, 5-4-1 in rounds. Judge Joe Agnello saw it even in rounds, 5-5, but cast his ballot for Lowry on points, 6-5. Judge Harold Barnes had it exactly even, 5-5, in rounds and 8-8 in points. The AP card had Lowry ahead, 5-4-1.

In their first fight on Feb. 28, Lowry also won by a very narrow margin.

Sometimes you can get two fighters who can meet a dozen times and prove nothing. That's the way it appears between Lowry and Adams. Pete, one of 21 children, lost four fingers of his right hand in an accident four years ago.

SIX STITCHES were required to patch a cut over Lowry's left eye. The injury cost him an April 26 bout in Toledo with Carmine Fiore.

Adams had a three pound weight edge, 152½ to 149½. A crowd of 1,250 paid $1,900.

In the other network telecast bout of the night, Danny Giovanelli of Brooklyn used his seven pound weight edge—150 to 143—to bull out a one-sided, 10-round decision over Denmark's Chris Christensen at Eastern Parkway arena. The victory stretched Giovanelli's unbeaten string to five.

A crowd of about 1,500 paid about $2,500.

YMCA Program Opens Wednesday

The YMCA athletic department has arranged a vacation program for all boy members, physical director Bill Irland has announced.

A softball game is planned Wednesday at 10:30 a. m. A general swim for all boys is set at 2 p. m., followed by the regular beginning swim for learners at 4 o'clock.

Thursday is general clean-up day with all boys reporting at 10:30 a. m. The Y will furnish milk for the noon day lunch. After the cleaning is done, the swimming pool will be in order.

Programs start Friday at 10:30. Movies are scheduled Saturday. Each boy is asked to bring a bag lunch to the Thursday clean-up day.

Nagy's Keglers Miss First by 3 Pins in ABC

Fort Wayne, Ind., April 12 (AP)—There were two new teams among the first 10 in the American Bowling Congress tournament today after last night's heavy firing.

Steve Nagy's Cleveland All-Stars missed taking over first place by three pins but their 3,013 total put them right behind the two teams which share the top spot.

Last night's final squad was the highest scoring unit of the tourney, with 11 teams posting totals of 2,800 and higher.

AFTER ROLLING PLUS 1,000 games in their first two efforts, the Cleveland club eased off from the hot pace and finished with a 995 final.

Howards Clothes of St. Paul, Minn., and the Cole Finder Mercury quintet of Chicago share the top spot with 3,015.

Chuck O'Donnell paced Nagy's team with a blistering 690 series which put him in a good position to challenge for the all events lead today. Nagy had the only other 600 on the team, getting a 601.

Anchorman Nelson Burton had a chance to push Nagy's team into the lead in the final frame. He needed a strike with his final ball but dropped only seven pins.

BOWES SEAL FAST of Indianapolis rolled into a tie for sixth place on the final squad last night, getting a 2,968.

Two changes also resulted earlier in the day in the minor events. George Hundycz and Joe Galini of Fulton, N. Y., rolled into fifth in the doubles with 1,249 while Leo Slominski of St. Louis took over sixth in the singles with 686.

BOWLING SCORES

Ted Gile Jr., F. Leskie Tie With 616 Triples; R. Schatzel Slams 565

A couple of Independent League sharpshooters—Ted Gile, Jr., and Frank "Boots" Leskie—tied for high scoring honors in bowling last night.

Gile fashioned 616, with 234-213-169. Leskie equalled that mark with 225-192-199.

Best woman score was the 565 (183-215-167) fashioned by Rose Schatzel in the Woman's Major.

Marie Kelekian fired 162-173-185 for 520 to lead the Matinee Club.

City Minor League had Gerry Kearney fire 232 and Harry Secreto 595 (188-204-203) for top honors.

Louise Jordan took it all with 171-480 in the Women's Junior Major.

Jake Croswell showed the way for Junior Major League keglers with a 576 slam on lines of 183, 203, 190.

EVELYN GROSS shot 513 for runnerup honors in the Woman's Major and Lorraine Ferraro earned the show spot with 506.

Three of Crew Rescued

Singapore, April 12 (AP)—The British navy reported that three crewmen of a crashed Indian airliner were rescued today in the South China Sea. Fifteen persons were still missing, including eight Communist Chinese officials, a North Vietnamese and two Polish journalists—all bound for the African-Asian conference in Indonesia. The navy said the Singapore coastal ship Taype picked up the plane's first engineer, navigator and ground engineer — all Indians — some 200 miles northeast of Singapore, near the Great Natuna Islands. The survivors were reported suffering from slight injuries.

Between A.D. 1200 and 1800, world population increased from about 500 million to 900 million and today it is 2,400,000.

STAR OF FUTURE—This is Ken Barr, the sensational young Rosendale welterweight champion of the Adirondack AAU section of the Golden Gloves. An explosive knockout artist, Barr fights Charlie Shorts of Albany in a three-rounder Thursday night at the municipal auditorium.

Pat Lowry Wins; Giovanelli Skein Reaches Five

New York, April 12 (AP)—Pat Lowry holds a 2-0 edge today over Pete (One-Finger) Adams, but if they were to meet for a third time there still would be a lot of support for the handicapped New Jersey welterweight.

Lowry, a 25-year-old ex-marine from Toledo, O., finished with a rush last night to score a majority decision over the 23-year-old Adams in a telecast 10-rounder at St. Nicholas Arena. The crowd-pleasing Ohio Irishman landed enough overhand rights to the head in the last two rounds to edge Petey in the scoring.

REFEREE BARNEY Felix had Pat in front, 5-4-1 in rounds. Judge Joe Agnello saw it even in rounds, 5-5, but cast his ballot for Lowry on points, 6-5. Judge Harold Barnes had it exactly even, 5-5, in rounds and 8-8 in points. The AP card had Lowry ahead, 5-4-1.

In their first fight on Feb. 28, Lowry also won by a very narrow margin.

Sometimes you can get two fighters who can meet a dozen times and prove nothing. That's the way it appears between Lowry and Adams. Pete, one of 21 children, lost four fingers of his right hand in an accident four years ago.

SIX STITCHES were required to patch a cut over Lowry's left eye. The injury cost him an April 26 bout in Toledo with Carmine Fiore.

Adams had a three pound weight edge, 152½ to 149½. A crowd of 1,250 paid $1,900.

In the other network telecast bout of the night, Danny Giovanelli of Brooklyn used his seven pound weight edge—150 to 143—to bull out a one-sided, 10-round decision over Denmark's Chris Christensen at Eastern Parkway arena. The victory stretched Giovanelli's unbeaten string to five.

A crowd of about 1,500 paid about $2,500.

YMCA Program Opens Wednesday

The YMCA athletic department has arranged a vacation program for all boy members, physical director Bill Irland has announced.

A softball game is planned Wednesday at 10:30 a. m. A general swim for all boys is set at 2 p. m., followed by the regular beginning swim for learners at 4 o'clock.

Thursday is general clean-up day with all boys reporting at 10:30 a. m. The Y will furnish milk for the noon day lunch. After the cleaning is done, the swimming pool will be in order.

Programs start Friday at 10:30. Movies are scheduled Saturday. Each boy is asked to bring a bag lunch to the Thursday clean-up day.

I. B. M'ers
Just a stone's throw north of I.B.M. on the neighborhood road is a fine old country home just offered for sale. If you seek space, quiet, comfort and gracious living, this should interest you. And, too, you would hardly need two cars. The new school is to be built within a city block and the bus passes the door. There are four bedrooms, modern bath, full dining room, large kitchen, and large living room with fireplace. The two landscaped acres offer two fine building lots. Hot water oil heat, abundant soft water, a two-car garage, a fine new kitchen range, etc., make the property doubly attractive.

I. B. M'ers
Just a stone's throw north of I.B.M. on the neighborhood road is a fine old country home just offered for sale. If you seek space, quiet, comfort and gracious living, this should interest you. And, too, you would hardly need two cars. The new school is to be built within a city block and the bus passes the door. There are four bedrooms, modern bath, full dining room, large kitchen, and large living room with fireplace. The two landscaped acres offer two fine building lots. Hot water oil heat, abundant soft water, a two-car garage, a fine new kitchen range, etc., make the property doubly attractive.

Two Persons Hurt In Two-Car Crash

Two persons were injured, a traffic light was knocked out and other damages were reported in a two-car collission at Franklin street and Clinton avenue last night.

Officers James Burns and Thomas McGrane reported at 6:08 p. m., that the sedan of Louis Scism, 41, of 108 Clinton avenue, was headed west on Franklin street, and the car of Mary J. Johnson, 28, of 69 Liberty street, was headed south on Clinton avenue.

The woman reported an injury to the left side and Scism a lip injury. She claimed the light at the intersection was not working, the report said.

Damage was reported to a hedge, fence and porch of the Harry Yale property, 95 Clinton avenue, the traffic light pole was reported broken and a mail box was pushed about six feet from the corner, the officers said.

Killed by Train

New York, April 12 (AP)—A Queens man was killed today when he fell or jumped in front of a southbound Independent subway train at the 168th street Broadway station in Manhattan. Subway service was disrupted a half hour. Police said the victim had been identified tentatively as Henry F. J. Beck, about 45, of 34-12 29th street, Long Island City.

Reports Injuries to Son

Mrs. Peter Naccarato, of 42 Smith avenue, notified police at 11:14 a. m., today that her son, Peter, 11, suffered injuries of the hands in a fall from a bicycle after two boys had shot at him, with pea shooters on Madden street.

Ford Joins . . .

a quarter of Ford's 136,000 production force was laid off as long as two weeks in the change-over to 1955 models.

THE UAW had no comment on the Ford and GM arguments that they have already substantially achieved steady production and employment. However, Reuther has said his guaranteed wage plan is designed to be an incentive to employers to keep sales and jobs on an even keel.

The union demands that employers contribute toward rainy-day funds that will keep workers' pay rolling in when they are laid off because of lack of work.

Neither Ford nor GM has expressed outright opposition to Reuther's plan.

Reports Cars Doused

Cars of three residents of Colonial Gardens were reported doused with kerosene last night. Joseph Kish notified police at 7:45 p. m., that the oil had been poured on his car, and when Officers Joseph Kivlan and William Snyder investigated, they learned that two others, one owned by LeRoy Weber and the other by Robert Elmendorf got the "kerosene treatment." The report indicated that youngsters appeared to be involved. A can containing kerosene was found in a field to the rear of the apartment development.

Seaway Work Starts

Massena, April 12 (AP)—Digging began yesterday on the U. S. portion of the St. Lawrence Seaway. The Maser Corp. contractor for the Robinson Bay excavation, removed the first of about 2,575,000 cubic yards of earth. Formal groundbreaking ceremonies will be held later this spring.

80 Not Record

A high temperature of 80 degrees at 2:30 p. m., yesterday, was no record for the date by records of the city engineer's office. The temperature was equalled on the same date in 1945. The mercury began dropping after the high yesterday and by noon today the difference was 21 degrees. The noon high yesterday was 75 and that today was only 54 degrees.

Priority for Children

Ann Arbor, Mich., April 12 (AP)—"Give the children priority" in getting the Salk polio vaccine, Dr. Dwight H. Murray, chairman of the American Medical Association's board of trustees, urged today. Dr. Murray, of Napa, Calif., held announcement of the success of the polio vaccine as "one of the greatest events in the history of medicine."

four persons were in the three-story frame structure when the fire broke out in the rear at about 2:30 a. m.

Screams rose above the crackle of flames as many groped their way through smoke to the street. Most were in night clothes or half dressed.

Patrolman Edward Henek, summoned by a patrol car, said that while flames wreathed the back of the building an explosion spurted fire to the front "just like a flame thrower."

ONE MAN WAS injured. William Selby, 43, was admitted to Saratoga Hospital with first and second-degree burns. The hospital said his condition was fair.

A bar, a paint store and a furniture store room occupied the first floor of the structure, in Carline street.

The cause of the fire was not determined.

One cubic foot of solid coil will generate enough electricity to operate a frozen-food locker for 31 days.

Openers Canceled

(By The Associated Press)

Rain put a damper Tuesday on the full-scale opening of the major league baseball season, forcing cancellation of three games and threatening others.

Cold showers which swept through the east forced postponement until Wednesday of the champion New York Giants' opener against the Phillies at Philadelphia; Brooklyn's game with Pittsburgh at Ebbets Field and the New York Yankees' American League debut against Washington at Yankee Stadium.

Two Persons Hurt In Two-Car Crash

Two persons were injured, a traffic light was knocked out and other damages were reported in a two-car collission at Franklin street and Clinton avenue last night.

Officers James Burns and Thomas McGrane reported at 6:08 p. m., that the sedan of Louis Scism, 41, of 108 Clinton avenue, was headed west on Franklin street, and the car of Mary J. Johnson, 28, of 69 Liberty street, was headed south on Clinton avenue.

The woman reported an injury to the left side and Scism a lip injury. She claimed the light at the intersection was not working, the report said.

Damage was reported to a hedge, fence and porch of the Harry Yale property, 95 Clinton avenue, the traffic light pole was reported broken and a mail box was pushed about six feet from the corner, the officers said.

Killed by Train

New York, April 12 (AP)—A Queens man was killed today when he fell or jumped in front of a southbound Independent subway train at the 168th street Broadway station in Manhattan. Subway service was disrupted a half hour. Police said the victim had been identified tentatively as Henry F. J. Beck, about 45, of 34-12 29th street, Long Island City.

Reports Injuries to Son

Mrs. Peter Naccarato, of 42 Smith avenue, notified police at 11:14 a. m., today that her son, Peter, 11, suffered injuries of the hands in a fall from a bicycle after two boys had shot at him, with pea shooters on Madden street.

News of Interest to Fraternal Organizations

Ancient City Council, 21, Royal and Select Masters, will hold a stated assembly in its secret vault, Masonic Temple, Albany avenue, Thursday night. This will be the official visit and homecoming of District Deputy Grand Master, Right Illustrious Philip E. Kearney. A large attendance is urged. Refreshments will be served at the close of the assembly.

A regular stated conclave of Rondout Commandery 52, Knights Templar, will meet in the asylum, Masonic Temple, 31 Albany avenue, Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. Orders of the Red Cross and Knights of Malta will be conferred on a large class of candidates. All members of the commandery are urged to attend to assist in conferring the orders. Refreshments will be served at the end of the rites.

Mrs. Yankouski

in self defense. Her attorney, Richard F. Russell, told the jury she killed Yankouski while protecting herself and their three children from abuse.

Dist. Atty. Raymond C. Barratata called the slaying "deliberate murder" and asked for a verdict of murder in the second degree.

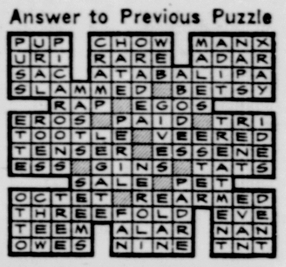
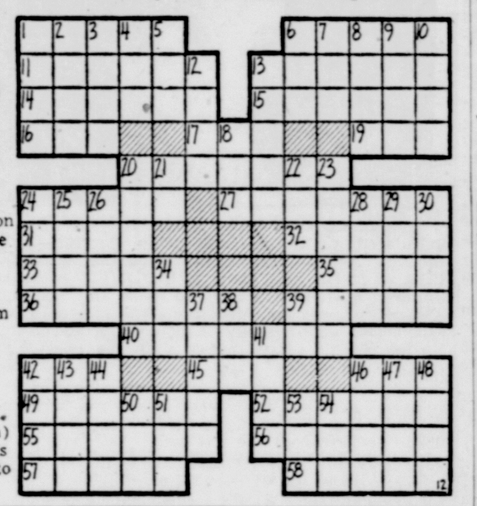
Answer to Previous Puzzle





Ford Joins . . .

a quarter of Ford's 136,000 production force was laid off as long as two weeks in the change-over to 1955 models.

THE UAW had no comment on the Ford and GM arguments that they have already substantially achieved steady production and employment. However, Reuther has said his guaranteed wage plan is designed to be an incentive to employers to keep sales and jobs on an even keel.

The union demands that employers contribute toward rainy-day funds that will keep workers' pay rolling in when they are laid off because of lack of work.

Neither Ford nor GM has expressed outright opposition to Reuther's plan.

Reports Cars Doused

Cars of three residents of Colonial Gardens were reported doused with kerosene last night. Joseph Kish notified police at 7:45 p. m., that the oil had been poured on his car, and when Officers Joseph Kivlan and William Snyder investigated, they learned that two others, one owned by LeRoy Weber and the other by Robert Elmendorf got the "kerosene treatment." The report indicated that youngsters appeared to be involved. A can containing kerosene was found in a field to the rear of the apartment development.

Seaway Work Starts

Massena, April 12 (AP)—Digging began yesterday on the U. S. portion of the St. Lawrence Seaway. The Maser Corp. contractor for the Robinson Bay excavation, removed the first of about 2,575,000 cubic yards of earth. Formal groundbreaking ceremonies will be held later this spring.

80 Not Record

A high temperature of 80 degrees at 2:30 p. m., yesterday, was no record for the date by records of the city engineer's office. The temperature was equalled on the same date in 1945. The mercury began dropping after the high yesterday and by noon today the difference was 21 degrees. The noon high yesterday was 75 and that today was only 54 degrees.

Priority for Children

Ann Arbor, Mich., April 12 (AP)—"Give the children priority" in getting the Salk polio vaccine, Dr. Dwight H. Murray, chairman of the American Medical Association's board of trustees, urged today. Dr. Murray, of Napa, Calif., held announcement of the success of the polio vaccine as "one of the greatest events in the history of medicine."

Saratoga Flash

four persons were in the three-story frame structure when the fire broke out in the rear at about 2:30 a. m.

Screams rose above the crackle of flames as many groped their way through smoke to the street. Most were in night clothes or half dressed.

Patrolman Edward Henek, summoned by a patrol car, said that while flames wreathed the back of the building an explosion spurted fire to the front "just like a flame thrower."

ONE MAN WAS injured. William Selby, 43, was admitted to Saratoga Hospital with first and second-degree burns. The hospital said his condition was fair.

A bar, a paint store and a furniture store room occupied the first floor of the structure, in Carline street.

The cause of the fire was not determined.

One cubic foot of solid coil will generate enough electricity to operate a frozen-food locker for 31 days.

Openers Canceled

(By The Associated Press)

Rain put a damper Tuesday on the full-scale opening of the major league baseball season, forcing cancellation of three games and threatening others.

Cold showers which swept through the east forced postponement until Wednesday of the champion New York Giants' opener against the Phillies at Philadelphia; Brooklyn's game with Pittsburgh at Ebbets Field and the New York Yankees' American League debut against Washington at Yankee Stadium.

Polio Vaccine

of the huge vaccination program.

IT IS ESTIMATED there will be enough vaccine for 30 million children, but if Dr. Salk's recommendation of two shots instead of three immediately is followed this would make possible innoculation of 45 million children.

Dr. Francis revealed his report at a meeting of 400 scientists and doctors.

Out of 1,800,000 children in the test program, 1,013 cases of polio developed.

In areas where the vaccine and dummy shots were used interchangeably 428 out of 749,236 came down with polio.

In observed control areas where only second graders were inoculated 585 of 1,080,680 children developed polio.

Of children receiving dummy shots 115 became paralyzed.

In the areas where vaccine was used on some and others merely observed 38 children became paralyzed as opposed to 330 who did not get the vaccine.

FOUR CHILDREN who received dummy shots died of polio as against none of those vaccinated in areas where dummy shots and vaccine were used interchangeably.

In areas where it was known that children received vaccine not one died while there were 11 deaths among children who were being merely observed.

The vaccine protected well against outbreaks of polio within families.

Only one out of 223 vaccinated children developed polio from family contacts as against eight out of 244 who received dummy shots.

The report said the choice in picking field trial areas had been fortunate in the fact that polio was more prevalent in those areas last year than in previous years, thus giving a more effective test of the vaccine.

In areas where dummy shots were used there were 7,049,236 children in the first through third grades. Of the 60.8 per cent asked to participate in the tests 26.8 per cent, or 200,745, received three shots of vaccine and 26.9 per cent, or 201,229, three dummy shots.

IN THE OBSERVED control areas there were 1,080,680 children in the first three grades and 221,998 second grade children or 20:5 per cent received the three shots.

The vaccine was given only to children—none to adults. However, it has been recommended that vaccine in future be given pregnant women. There is not yet sufficient vaccine for injection of adults generally.

On the question of safety, Dr. Francis said 931 children who were vaccinated and 939 given dummy shots had minor reactions, each the same percentage, .04.

Of the so called "major" reactions, none could clearly be attributed to inoculation. There were nine in children receiving vaccine and 13 such reactions in those getting dummy shots.

These findings failed to implicate the vaccine as a significant cause of untoward reactions.

There was no evidence to blame the vaccine as a source of infection, the report declared.

AMONG CHILDREN who developed paralysis there was no evidence that the paralysis localized or involved the left arm where all injections were given.

Dr. William G. Workman of the National Institutes of Health declared the vaccine "warrants careful consideration for licensure" attesting to its safety, purity and potency.

"It may be taken as a reasonable assumption that with the excellent cooperation that the manufacturers have always given it will be possible to provide the immunity which may reasonably be expected," Dr. Workman said.

The vaccine is designed to protect against all three types of virus which cause human paralysis but it varied in its apparent ability to halt the different types.

Dr. Francis said in the dummy-vaccine shot areas, the Salk vaccine was 68 per cent effective against type 1, 100 per cent against type 2 and 92 per cent against type 3.

"This clearly agrees with previous demonstrations that most lots of vaccine were less antigenic or potent against type 1 than against the other two types. In addition the effectiveness of different lots of vaccine varied considerable as measured by the accurrence of polio." Dr. Francis said.

He said it is not possible to give a single figure expressing the numerical or percentage effectiveness of the vaccine in a complete sense.

FIRST TO GET SALK VACCINE—The first human being ever inoculated with the Salk polio vaccine—William Kirkpatrick (above), 20—had already overcome the crippling disease in June, 1952, when Dr. Salk came to the D. T. Watson Home for Crippled Children at Leetsdale, Pa., to make the first human inoculations. Kirkpatrick was one of 40 boys and girls who volunteered for the test. The polio vaccine had nothing to do with his recovery. Kirkpatrick is shown above with his dog, Mike, at Pittsburgh. (NEA Telephoto)

Walks as Parents Sleep

Yonkers, April 12 (AP)—Two-year-old Donald Dalton was missing from his crib when his parents awoke this morning. Frantically Richard and Geraldine Dalton searched their apartment and telephoned police. "Yes," the police replied, "he is in Yonkers General Hospital, where we took him after he was found in the street at 2:30 a. m." When Donald was put to bed last night, the parents strapped him in. Later the boy managed to unfasten the strap, unlocked the hall door, walked down three flights of stairs and out to the street.

Dulles Action

of settling some immigrants in Latin America.

Dulles faced certain questioning about the case at a news conference today.

Corsi is a veteran GOP officeholder in New York state. The political implications were pointed up by the public plea of Republican National Chairman Leonard W. Hall that Corsi continue to serve the Eisenhower administration.

Democratic Gov. Averell Harriman of New York promptly jumped into the matter by saying he had offered Corsi some time ago a job on the State Refugee commission. Aides said the job is an unsalaried one.

ARRIVING in New York from a Florida vacation, Harriman said:

"I think it's utterly outrageous and disgraceful, whether you are a Republican or a Democrat, that a man is fired just because someone makes an allegation against him after he has held office for 25 years as a servant of the public."

In a bitterly worded letter to Dulles rejecting the substitute post, Corsi gave administration critics some new political ammunition.

He called the administration's refugee program a "scandalous failure" with fewer than 1,000 admitted to this country in 16 months. He said it had been sabotaged by "an intolerant minority both in Congress and within the department itself."
